In 1888, Otto Juettner wrote "Varsity, Oh Varsity" which became our Alma Mater. Long a symbol of a proud, progressive University, today it is a fighting song; a song with a different meaning. New strength has been embodied in the original threads of tradition, making it a fitting backdrop for this, The Fiftieth Cincinnatian.

The mellowing but vital force of tradition at the University of Cincinnati becomes a very real part of the life of every student. It is symbolized by McMicken's lions and the Engineering Quadrangle—a combination that represents intellectual achievement and technical skill.

Acting as a medium, the University develops the student's appreciation of the benefits to be derived from its foster city—a city rich in culture and opportunity. Accordingly, the vital force of our school tradition broodens into a deep civic pride and loyalty.

Projected beyond and above campus and city into the nation, the dimension of steps forward, the University in its acquired skills with pride in its ability to apply them for the benefit of the nation and for mankind during and after the War.

1943—our fiftieth year—is a year stripped of superficiality; one in which true value is recognized. Pride in our past and a growing realization of our value as trained people—these are the forces that motivate us. As a school we expand our tradition of vitality and utilize these times as an impetus to achieve real progress. To this aim we dedicate

PRESIDENT

The University and the War

This momentous war year has brought to the University of Cincinnati—as to all the nation—changes unprecedented in scope and magnitude. Our University has become a U. S. Army camp,—at the same time continuing most regular courses.

The first period of this academic year opened in the autumn of 1942 and extended to the spring of 1943. Students returning to the Burnet Woods campus last September found the usual beauty of broad lawns, spreading trees and noble buildings. But instead of the academic calm of peacetime, they joined faculty and staff in laboratories and classrooms in a tense and determined tempo. Loyally they responded to the summons issued by the President: the University enlisted for the duration!

In substantially every college of the University accelerated courses were given. The College of Law and the College of Medicine graduated their 1943 classes on February 1 and February 24 respectively, and the College of Engineering and Commerce on April 9. The commencement program of other units is scheduled for June 4.

I am proud of the manner in which our students worked, undaunted by the uncertainties and confusion of changing governmental announcements as to their military status.

Along with their academic programs, many of our men students took part in the military training of the R.O.T.C. or joined the Enlisted Reserve Corps of the Army, Navy and Marines. The women students did their share with fine patriotism in activities including the Cadet Corps and Red Cross classes.

To each of the students called to the armed forces during the academic year, the President issued a certificate "in recognition of the patriotic service he is rendering in this great war, and with pride in his loyalty to the nation as a son of this University."

As spring followed this war winter of 1942-43, the transformation of the University into an Army establishment—officially selected by the War Department for varied training programs—became a literal fact. Like the first robins came the Army Air Force contingent, traveling from a Florida center to Cincinnati and taking occupancy March 3 of the Men's Memorial Dormitory. These 500 clear-eyed, stalwart flyer-candidates took to the University and the University took to them. Not omitting the co-eds! Weekend dances and varied programs have lightened the daily grind of classroom, drill and flying field.

Academic instruction of the Army Air Force men is being given chiefly by faculty members of the College of Liberal Arts. They are likewise to teach the Army quota of pre-medical students assigned to this University by the War Department.

Crowded, as in peacetime, is the wartime schedule of the faculty of the College of Engineering and Commerce. Along the hedge-adorned walks of the Herman Schneider Quadrangle and into the great brick buildings of this famous cooperative college there march these days squads of erect uniformed young men. They are soldiers from all parts of the country, selected by special aptitude and achievement tests at Army centers as capable of engineering training in this and other technological institutions. They swing into the classrooms and laboratories of Baldwin, Swift and other Quadrangle buildings for instruction in civil engineering, chemical engineering, electrical engineering and mechanical engineering, and some are taking subjects preliminary to engineering.

In addition to Air Force, pre-medical and engineering soldiers on the Burnet Woods campus, there are to be 300 medical students at the College of Medicine.

The following administrative and faculty members, appointed by the President, have had charge of plans and arrangements as the University Committee on War Training Programs: Dean L. A. Pechstein, chairman; Vice-President Daniel Laurence; Dean Norman P. Auburn; Professor Louis Brand and Professor M. J. Hubert. Serving with this committee have been Dean George B. Barbour, Dean Robert C. Gowdy, Dean Stanley Dorst, Comptroller Ralph W. Miller and Superintendent William B. Schoelwer.

Impossible to list here are the war-time research projects of the faculty,—work of very great value to the Army, Navy, Air Forces and industry. A considerable number of the faculty are absent on leave for service in the armed forces and in governmental work. An Army Hospital unit has been staffed by the College of Medicine and the College of Nursing and Health, for service abroad. In all these activities the University takes pride.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Appointed for terms of nine years by the Mayor of Cincinnati, with the approval of Council, the Board of Directors of the University of Cincinnati is responsible for the general control and conduct of the institution. The Board is made up of nine persons who are prominent in the civic, industrial, and professional life of Cincinnati. In regular monthly meetings during the school year and through thirteen standing committees, the Board acts on financial expenditures, appointments and resignations of the Faculty, and athletic and alumnal affairs.

Executive Committee member established the first Cincinnati, back over the fifty years of ad

It is now fifty-three years since I entered the University as a freshman in 1890. Many changes have occurred since then and it may be hard for you, who are students today, to visualize what the University of that day was.

In 1890 there were but two buildings. One of these was the College building which was located on the McMicken Homestead property near the intersection of Clifton Avenue and the Elm Street Inclined Plane. The other was the Cincinnati Observatory building located then, as now, in Mt. Lookout. There was a faculty of thirteen members and, after our class had registered, a student body of one hundred and thirty-three members. The Miami Medical College, the Ohio Medical College, the College of Dental Surgery, and the College of Pharmacy were affiliated with the University.

We had laboratories in Physics, Chemistry and Zoology, and a library consisting of enough books to fill a fair sized room.

While the faculty was not large, it included among its members some very outstanding men. In spite of the limited physical equipment, a high scholastic standard was maintained; and many men and women were graduated in those early years who attained eminence in business and the professions.

For such a small student body, there was a lot of "College Spirit" and a number of student activities. A paper called "The McMicken Review" was published, and a football and a baseball team carried on regular schedules with neighboring colleges. There was a Glee and Mandolin Club which gave concerts at a number of places notably at the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago. The Colors of the University were adopted. The first "Cincinnati" was published in 1849 and was a very creditable book although much smaller than the "Cincinnati" of today.

It seems a far cry from the University of that day to the one which you know. Building after building has been erected, as needed, and additional colleges were established from time to time.

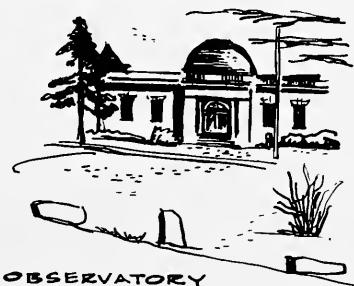

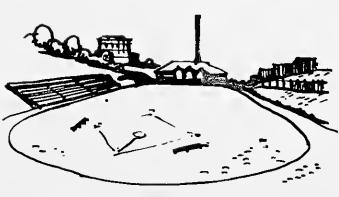

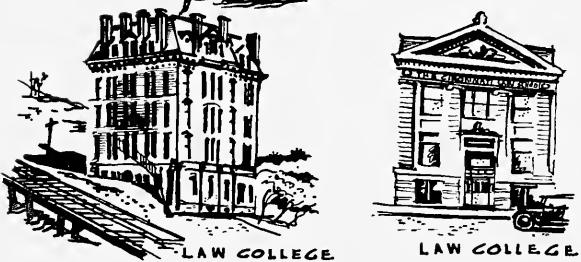

The expansion of the faculties, of the teaching facilities and equipment, and the increase in the number of students has been phenomenal. It has been my privilege to see and to participate in this growth, and it has been a most interesting experience.

Today your University has faculties, buildings, and equipment equal to any; and although still a Municipal University in its ownership and control, it has become indeed a National Institution.

CONSTITUTION

NAME

The student governing body of the University of Cincinnati shall be known as the Student Council.

II

PURPOSE

Its purpose shall be to enact and enforce legislation that will bring about harmonious coordination of the various colleges and promote the general welfare of the student body.

III

Those powers not exercised by the Council shall be reserved to the College Tribunals whose constitutions must be approved by the Council.

STUDENT

"That money problem again," complains a tired member of Student Council trying vainly to concentrate in spite of the smoke from Hoyt Graham's stogie and the noise of reports frantically shuffled by the financial committee with its pseudo-businesslike atmosphere. Informality is prevalent, but inefficiency is practically nil. The problems of student activity funds, valiant attempts to install the honor system, the question of sustaining activities during a war period, heated arguments and the inevitable workable compromises are all elements of the Council's activities. Concrete results are evident in plans for the University Directory and activity budgets.

MEN'S SENATE

CONSTITUTION

I PURPOSE

To form and coordinate all policies pertaining to men's student affairs which are not directly under control of the faculty or Student Council. Also, to further the cooperation and friendly relations among the men of the University of Cincinnati.

II MEMBERSHIP

One Senator shall be elected from the following: "C" Club, Dormitory Council, Fraternity Presidents' Council, Omicron Delta Kappa, Reserve Officers' Training Corps, Ulex, Sophos, Student Director of Intramurals, Young Men's Christian Association, Sigma Sigma, Men's Glee Club, Rifle Team, University Band, and Co-op Club.

"Yes sir, we sure make 'em tough!" No, it's not the Allied Strategy Board talking about Commandos, tanks, or planes; it's Men's Senate talking rather remorsefully about the people they trained to handle the problem of gas rationing. The major part of the Senate's activities this year was confined to War Service Programs. Discarding the traditional toga for khaki, the Senators aided in conserving tires and gasoline by organizing a car pool and through a University drive, deposited innumerable pints of blood in America's Blood Bank. Officers for the year are President, Joe Morris, Jr.; Vice-President, Harold Vayhinger; Secretary-Treasurer, Linton Vorwerck.

II MEMBERSHIP

All undergraduate, regular women of the University shall be ipso facto members of the association. One-hundred and twenty ink smudged fingers reach for a coke, light a cigarette, or drop listlessly to the table as the twelve members of the Liberal Arts Tribunal pause in the tiring, painstaking work of preparing their College's section of the All-University Directory. Not all is drudgery in this governmental student body, however, as those same fingers apply themselves to decorating the Great Hall in the yuletide spirit for the Annual College Dance. Falling back on their mental powers, the Tribunal performs an excellent job, not only in the Sub-Freshman and Orientation Day programs, but also in further aiding the Freshman to adapt himself to college life through the use of Junior Advisors.

"If I could only get a 3.5 in Freehand . . . or a 4.5 in Ceramics . . . might manage four checks on my Architectural plate . . ." Stop worrying, student, haven't you heard of the Student-Faculty luncheons your Applied Arts Tribunal sponsors? Of course, we don't guarantee you a 5.5 average or immediate membership into Delta Phi Delta, but reaching a level of personal understanding with your professors is half of the battle. In addition to ruling with a strong but artistic hand over the various activities of the College, the tribunal finds time to take an active part in presenting events like the Annual Water Color Dance and Freshman Mixer that strengthen the friendly feeling prevailing between the students.

"How does that hunk of machinery work?" . . . "Where is the Grill?" . . . "Why only three sides to the Quadrangle?" . . . "When da we eat?" . . . asks the typical high school student on Co-op Day. Engineering Tribunal members spend feverish hours planning for that day, placing people to explain "that hunk of machinery" to the sub-freshman, answering all his questions, as well as arranging his luncheon. The Tribunal is best known for its sponsorship of Co-op Day and the Engineers' Ball. At this year's dance Kappa Kappa Gamma's Jane Schweikert reigned as Queen, and Jimmie James' band gave forth. The tribunal members also help with the Orientation Program, handle student-faculty luncheons, and wrestle with the problems of the Engineering College.

T. C.'s Tribunal successfully sponsors everything from candy stands to convocations. The tangible proceeds from the former go to the Dean's Discretionary Fund; the intangible proceeds from the latter add interest to student life. A Christmas project to benefit poor families was sponsored by Tribunal this year, as are the college's spring and fall picnics every year. Other colleges may well envy the cheerful atmosphere around T. C. during Easter and Christmas times, for then open house is held in Annie Laws Drawing Room by members of this group who have appropriately and artistically decorated the room. Both the College of Music and the Conservatory send representatives to the Teacher's College Tribunal meetings.

Home Ec. has the only completely "Co-ed" Tribunal on campus; a male viewpoint would be entirely irrelevant in the problems of this college. This democratic governing group invites all students to offer suggestions and assistance in its work. The most interesting project for the year was the assumption of responsibility for baking thousands of cookies each week for men in service. The U.S.O. and the Tribunal were both gratified at the response from students who gave time to the project after school hours. Home Ec. Club, sororities, and fraternities contributed financially for supplies. Tribunal planned a spring picnic for students in the college as well as a fall one to welcome frosh girls. In Home Economics this group also handled the orientation program.

McMICKEN

C O L L E G E O F L I B E R A L A R T S

Dean's Message:

Fifty years makes quite a difference. When Old McMicken first opened its doors, the football team was captained by Vice-President Lawrence and managed by Judge Nippert, co-eds were a new invention, and really nice young ladies did not smoke. Home Economics had not been discovered; Psychology, Sociology, and Geography were not yet thought worthy of attention; Tri-Delt was the only national sorority on campus. Teachers College was a future dream; candidates for admission to U. C. had to pass an examination which included "the correcting of specimens of bad English" before studying for a degree in Arts, in Letters, or in Science (including engineering).

The first edition of the Cincinnatian was dedicated to Charles McMicken. Its editors, Frank Sanford Brown and Alfred K. Nippert, placed in the forefront the story of the founder's purpose in setting up an institution which would give "a sound, thorough and practical English education, and such as might fit them for the active duties of life, as well as instruction in all the higher branches of knowledge." Judging by the record in public life made by the graduates of those days, the twelve professors, two instructors, and two assistants did a good job.

If Charles McMicken could enter the Hall which bears his name he might get some surprises, but he would see the realization of his purpose. Having ridden from Pennsylvania to Cincinnati at twenty-one with no possessions but his horse and saddle, he would ask for some explanation of the ROTC, "Coedets," and Army Air Corps preflight units. But he would find that his purpose is still being carried out, in war as in peace, and he would wish to join in the salute given to graduates of 1943—present or in absentio—by the members of the McMicken College of Liberal Arts.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Phi Beta Kappa symbolizes outstanding intellectual achievement in the field of liberal arts education. This honorary fraternity was founded December 6, 1776 at the college of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Virginia. This was the first Greek letter society to be established. Originally it was founded as a social fraternity, but it became an honorary intellectual society in 1825. The officers are: President, Professor S. J. M. Allen; First Vice-President, Professor Gus Carlson; Second Vice-President, Louis Johnens; Third Vice-President, Nellie Rechenback; Secretary, Mrs. Grace Little; Treasurer, Dr. John Downer.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING AND COMMERCE

Dean's Message:

In the first issue of the Cincinnati, fifty years ago, there was not a section devoted to the College of Engineering and Commerce for no such college existed. But in the year book and catalogue of 1894 there is mention of a department of Civil Engineering. This department was established in 1874 in combination with the department of mathematics.

Engineering has therefore had as long a history in this university as any of the academic departments, but it was not until 1905 that a separate college was organized for technical training. The late Dean Herman Schneider was appointed administrative head of this new college, and at the beginning of his first academic year in office he introduced the cooperative plan.

In 1919 the College of Commerce was merged with the College of Engineering to form the present unit.

The history of the College of Engineering and Commerce has been essentially a story of the experimental development of a new system of professional training, with additions and modifications dominant over traditional practice. The following section of this book is an interesting and significant expansion of the listing of two candidates for the degree of Civil Engineer in the roster of the class of '94.

Robert C. Gowdy

sincerity and understanding characterize the dean of the University's largest and perhaps most vital college in this war-time year.

All students in civil engineering automatically become members of A.S.C.E. when they enter their sophomore year. The purpose of this national organization's student branches is to co-ordinate information and promote interest in the civil engineering field. This year the group included in its social affairs a successful student-faculty dinner at which Dr. Francis H. Bard spoke.

PI TAU SIGMA

Cincinnati Eta Chapter Established 1926

The object of Pi Tau Sigma is to foster the high ideals of the engineering profession, to stimulate interest in co-ordinate departmental activities, and to establish a closer bond of fellowship for those men in the study and in the profession of Mechanical Engineering. One fall and one spring initiation are held each year with regular business meetings and a dinner meeting each month. The fall initiation this year proved most interesting with C. L. Koehler, an alumnus, speaking on "Human Relationships in Engineering." Never to be forgotten was the hypnosis demonstration by Dr. Wallen at a February dinner meeting.

INSTITUTE OF AERONAUTICAL SCIENCES

The I. A. S. has as its purpose the advancement and betterment of Aeronautical Science. The student chapter at the University of Cincinnati was founded in 1935. A well-rounded acquaintance with different phases of aeronautics and the aircraft industry is gained by the showing of moving pictures and by talks by students. These talks usually center around thesis research or co-op work experiences.

Social functions sponsored by the I. A. S. include a party for each section. This year the parties were held in Mount Airy Forest.

GENERAL ENGINEERING

Prof. Howard K. Justice, Head of Department

SOCIETY OF GENERAL ENGINEERS

Founded 1941—University of Cincinnati

President—John Matlago

Vice-President—Harry Giesecking

Secretary-Treasurer—James Daggy

All General Engineers on campus automatically belong to this society which was originally a Society for Commercial Engineers. A curricular change in the department amended the interests of this group. The boys from the quadrangle won't soon forget the "Truth or Consequences" skit the generals gave at the Student-Faculty Luncheon or their co-op day exhibit.

January, 1943 saw the founding of a new departmental honorary at the University. As an organization for upperclass General Engineering students, Pi Sigma Pi was created to further interest in the field of general engineering. At present, next to this aim, plans for expansion seems to be the foremost motivating force. The members of this, the Alpha chapter, have established for the future the policy of awarding annually a general engineering handbook to the most outstanding freshman in the department. Dave Shaw, a sophomore, was the winner in this first year of the organization's existence. Professor Howard Justice serves as the faculty advisor.

The General Engineers know the in's and out's of the Engineering College. In addition to getting some information about all the other engineering branches, they get to know some rare individuals commonly called "profs." Until one joined the armed services, the boys really found out what accuracy means. He called the course Statistics—the generals have another name for it. It isn't so bad being invited over to enjoy Thermo with the chemicals, but it's rather discouraging to find out that the shortest distance to Hughes corner is not by way of Burnet Woods.

Alpha Kappa Psi offers outside training as a supplement to classroom instruction in the fields of commerce, accounting, and finance. Its members make contacts with practical affairs and men of the business world. The group also fosters scientific research in fields which lead to a degree in Business Administration. Two scholarship medallions are presented each year to an outstanding engineering student in Evening College and one in day school. The big events on Alpha Kappa's social calendar were the December Initiation Banquet, the spring picnics, and the chapter's Birthday Banquet in Moy which the alumni attend.

Teachers College

TEACHERS COLLEGE

Dean's Message:

Teacher's College insists on keeping its vision prospectuvel but in somewhat labored retrospect, perhaps it is right to single out some landmarks in the development of the college.

It was founded in 1905 after an earlier departmental status within the College of Liberal Arts. In 1920 the fifth year cooperative plan of teacher training was established.

A program of service training for teachers was added in 1923 when the College became affiliated with the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, the College of Music and the Art Academy. By 1928 there was an independent establishment of graduate professional work.

The undergraduate college was reorganized in 1928 to embrace the freshman and sophomore years. This made possible, among other achievements, the elevation of university athletics, to a stronger place in the curriculum of the College's four year program in physical and health education.

The generalities, too, are significant: utmost cordiality between faculty and students; the College's home-like atmosphere; careful student guidance; intimate tie-up between the theory of our university classrooms and practice in the public schools; the insistence upon education as well as training a student to teach; and the belief in the worth and character of our students.

Medicine

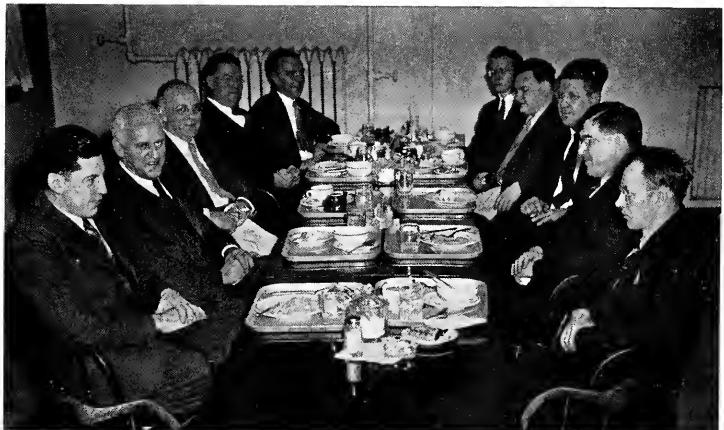

COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

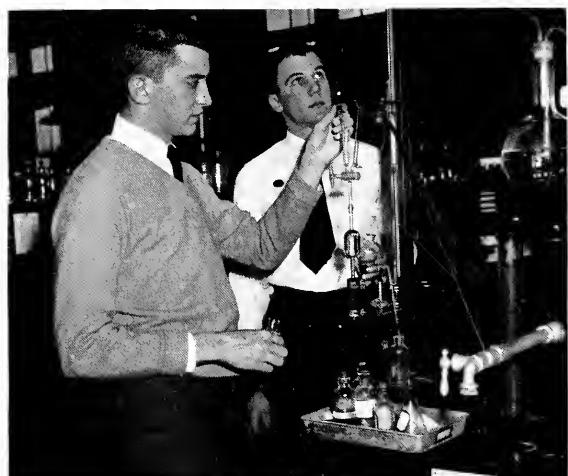

Dean Stanley E. Dorst

Dean of the college from which he graduated, Dr. Dorst understands problems from both students' and administrators' viewpoints.

MEDICINE THEN AND NOW

It is worthy of note that the Medical College is the oldest in the University. The Medical School is the lineal descendant of the Ohio Medical College established in 1819 by the celebrated pioneer physician, naturalist, and author, Daniel Drake. The college had an auspicious beginning. The faculty consisted of three members. At one of the faculty meetings one member made a motion that Drake resign; the other member seconded the motion; whereupon Drake put on his hat and announced the motion carried. After a lapse of several years, he rejoined the College for a brief period. There was much strife for many years, and this period is sometimes referred to as the "thirty year war."

The catalogue of about fifty years ago contains an illustration of the College building then located on Sixth Street near Vine. The building was provided with two spacious amphitheaters in which large classes assembled for didactic lectures. (A favorite sport consisted in bodily lifting up a fresh front row student and passing him overhead to the last row.) The faculty was made up of the able and leading practitioners of the town. A common school education was all that was required for admission. Upon the completion of three winter courses of about five months each, the candidate was ready for his M. D. degree.

Medical schools grew like mushrooms and at one time there were as many as six such schools in the city. By a gradual process of elimination or amalgamation, all medical teaching finally came under the aegis of the University, from which time forth the Medical College has grown to its present position and stature as one of the leading schools in the country.

The late Dr. Christian R. Holmes was the guiding spirit in the efflorescence and growth of the institution. The milestones from Drake to Holmes encompass the interesting history of medical education in the Ohio Valley.

COLLEGE OF LAW

Dean Merton L. Ferson

Highly respected and admired by the lawyers of the coming generation is the Dean of the College of Law.

What about the College of Law fifty years ago when the Cincinnati was being launched? The Law School of the Cincinnati College was then 60 years old. It was housed in a building on the site of the present Mercantile Library Building.

The Honorable Jacob Cox, a former Governor of Ohio and a General in the Civil War, was Dean of the Law School. Mr. Alexander H. McGuffey (brother of William Holmes McGuffey of "Reader" fame) was Secretary. The requirement for admission was "the elements of a good English education." There were 5000 volumes in the Law Library.

Says the venerable Law College to the enterprising Cincinnati on the occasion of its fiftieth anniversary, "Many Happy Returns."

Nursing & Health

COLLEGE OF

NURSING AND HEALTH

Dean Helen G. Schwarz

A calm and efficient person, she rightfully takes her place as dean of wartime nurses.

The College of Nursing and Health congratulates the Cincinnati upon the celebration of its 50th Anniversary. We, too, can reflect upon fifty years of progress in which nursing education has been carried forward toward a goal commensurate with the trends of all education.

Some of the contrasts of the past and present through fifty years of progress are amusing to consider: the student nurse in the early '90's with her long, tight, leg-o-mutton sleeved uniform which swept the floor as she walked from patient to patient, with the trim, neat, shortsleeved uniform of the present student nurse; the first nursing textbook used in the school which contained all the information from care of mothers and babies, medical and surgical patients, anatomy and physiology to materia medica, with the present many separate reference books now found in the students' own library in the College of Nursing and Health; the end room on the ward which was the nurse's "home," to the present Nurses' Residence, complete with all accommodations for comfortable, modern living.

May we celebrate together another fifty years of noteworthy progress!

ALPHA ALPHA PI

Nursing Honorary — Alpha Chapter

Founded 1924 — University of Cincinnati

The activities of Alpha Alpha Pi have been greatly curtailed by the war effort and the extra time it is consuming. In its restricted life, the chapter still remembers its purpose: to provide highest ideals in nursing, to raise scholarship standings, to further student activities, and to bring about a closer relationship between nursing students of our school and those of other schools of nursing connected with universities.

Founded in 1924 with the idea of possible expansion in other institutions, Alpha Alpha Pi for years sponsored an annual picnic and ball. The picnic was usually held in Mount Airy forest. A lawn-fete and the initiation banquet were featured this year.

One interesting project started this year was a collection of dolls, displaying the evolution of the nurses' uniform from earliest times to the present day.

Applied Arts

SCHOOL

OF APPLIED ARTS

DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE:

In September 1922, the late Dean Herman Schneider organized a Department of Architecture closely affiliated with the Department of Civil Engineering in the College of Engineering and Commerce. This course proved to be attractive, and landscape architecture was soon added.

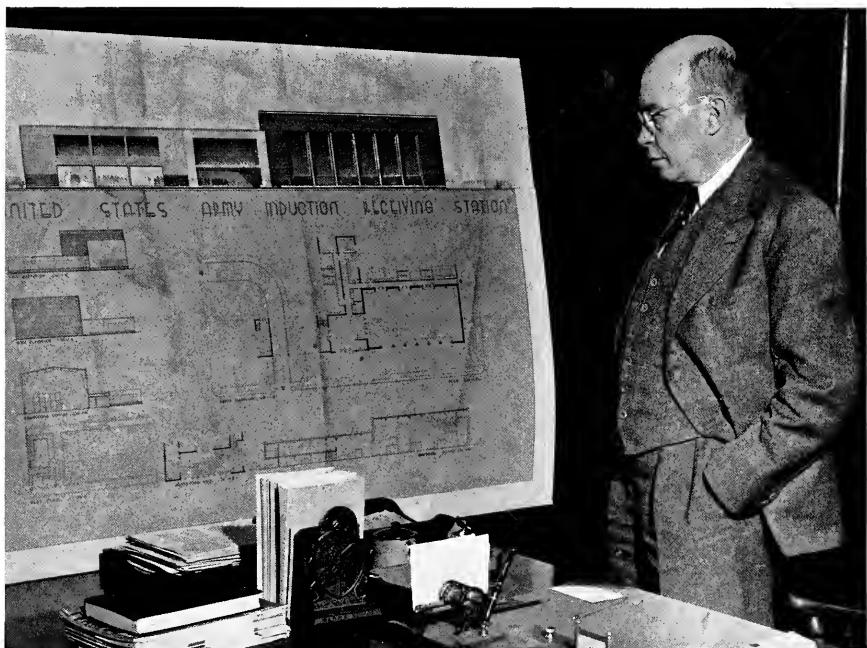

Having built the house and beautified the surroundings, it seemed natural that the occupants would like to have the interior made attractive; in July, 1925, the School of Applied Arts was created by action of the Board of Directors. Courses were offered in architecture, landscape architecture, and interior decoration. Ceramics, industrial design, costume design, general art, and courses for teachers of art were subsequently added to the programs offered by the School!

The men in the School of Applied Arts are all required to follow the cooperative plan, but the women may elect an optional full-time program. It is interesting to note, however, that there is an increasing preference for the cooperative work which can hardly be attributed entirely to its economic advantage.

There is gradual but marked and steady increase in the number of non-resident students who attend the School of Applied Arts and a widening geographical area from which they come.

Scarab was the first undergraduate architectural fraternity to be founded in this country. Membership is limited to architects, landscape architects, architectural engineers, and students studying for these professions. The aims of the organization are: to attain a broader knowledge of architecture and allied arts; to secure, through association, the advantages of a more refined culture; to stimulate a greater interest in expression of the graphic arts; to promote friendly competition among the students and schools of architecture; and to create a lasting spirit of fellowship and co-operation within the fraternity.

DELTA PHI DELTA

Alpha Zeta Chapter of Delta Phi Delta, national art fraternity, was installed on the U.C. campus in May, 1941. One of its chief projects is the scholarship fund for outstanding Applied Arts students. At Christmas time the fund was augmented by returns from an art sale, the first of its kind at the University. The social events of the season consisted of the annual Christmas Tea, a grill party featuring a talk by Mr. Reginald Grooms on student life in Paris, and the annual Co-op Day Banquet.

Home Ec

Dean Elizabeth Dyer

A woman of innumerable tasks—yet unsurpassed in poise, graciousness, and vitality.

Fifty years ago the Home Economics movement was just beginning! "Domestic Science" found its way into a few public schools and colleges. A hospital in Philadelphia employed a trained dietician, the first institution to make such a venture. An experimental kitchen was conducted in Boston.

Today Home economists are serving in every phase of public life—from hospitals to factories, from army camps to school lunchrooms. In peace times and in war times, the demand for trained women with intimate knowledge of human needs and family life has constantly increased. The zenith of home economics is still to be attained.

Dean Norman P. Fluburn

A graduate of this University and now its youngest dean, he is already prominent nationally in the field of evening college education.

Evening College

DEAN'S MESSAGE:

Fifty years ago, when the "Cincinnatian" made its initial appearance, there was no opportunity for a man or woman to obtain a college education in his leisure time. If he didn't have sufficient means to attend college full time during the day, higher education was "out" for him.

Happily, that situation does not obtain any longer. In fact, the University of Cincinnati was one of the first in the country to offer courses in the late afternoon and evening.

Former President Frederick C. Hicks is the father of adult education at U. C. Shortly after the turn of the century he arranged for instruction in commercial subjects in downtown Cincinnati. The response was excellent and resulted in the formation, in 1906, of the College of Finance, Commerce, and Accounts.

The several dozen men who attended this twilight college nearly forty years ago now watch a younger generation of day-time workers enjoy the opportunity of comprehensive study programs in commerce, liberal arts, engineering, and applied arts. From a very modest beginning there has developed an Evening College which last year enrolled nearly 6,500 men and women in credit-bearing courses, and nearly 3,000 in informal lecture groups—a College that ranks fourth or fifth in enrollment in the country.

Education is a continuing process—a life-long endeavor. Those who encouraged the University to develop night classes forty years ago recognized that principle; their sons and daughters realize it as they walk through the lighted halls of McMicken, Baldwin, Swift, Chemistry, and Old Tech to attend night classes. They see men and women of all ages—17 to 70—in the classrooms and laboratories. They know that a full third of them have already attended day college and that many are degree holders. They and their classmates are seekers of learning who are helping to hold the torch of culture aloft in these wartorn days.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

DEAN'S MESSAGE:

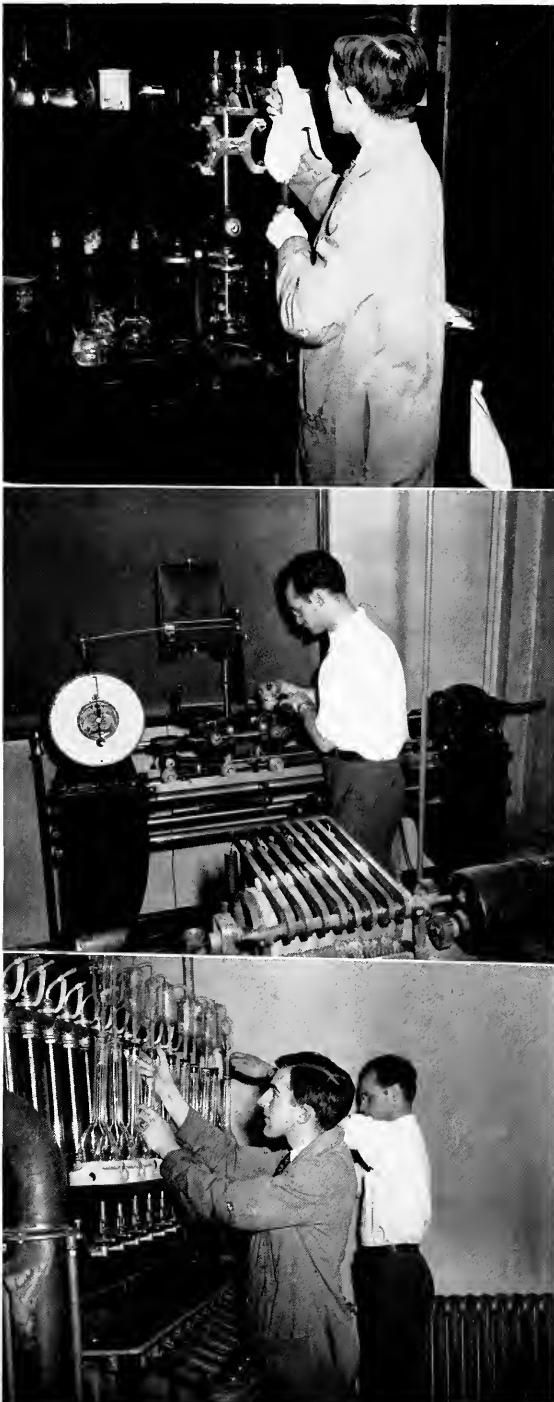

Although the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences was not formally opened until 1906, graduate work had been offered as early as 1880, three students receiving master's degrees that year—one in astronomy, a second in chemistry, and a third in philosophy. From 1880 to 1906, twenty master's degrees and three doctor's degrees were conferred.

By 1906 the graduate department of the University had so increased in strength that a separate Graduate School with a separate faculty and organization was established. The formal opening on November 16, 1906 was marked by the inauguration of Professor Joseph E. Harry as Dean, and an elaborate civic function, including a torchlight procession. Ten years later in 1916, after the appointment of Professor Louis T. More as Dean, a second reorganization of the Graduate School took place. At this time all the graduate work in the humanities and sciences was combined into a single Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. By this measure the School was greatly strengthened through the addition to its staff of outstanding scholars on the faculties of the College of Medicine and other professional schools.

From a small school of 15 departments and a faculty of 27 in 1906, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences has grown to its present strength of 36 departments and a faculty of 214. The enrollment has increased from 51 students to approximately 300 in pre-war days. Naturally, the war has brought about a sharp decrease in the number of students. However, we look confidently to the future, in the belief that with the end of the war the Graduate School will increase in importance and that its contributions to the promotion of higher scholarship will continue to multiply with the years.

DEAN OF WOMEN

"At last the class of '94 is able to present
this much-looked-for volume . . . "

Thus runs the opening editorial sentence of the 1894 yearbook—we say "editorial" because the first several pages of the modest brown colored little book were devoted to advertising:—"Cincinnati's New Grand Hotel . . . Strictly First Class . . . Patronized by all College Fraternities"; "Solid Trains Daily via the Big Four Route"; "The George W. McAlpin Company—the Handsomest Dry Goods Store in town".

Dedicated to Charles McMicken and published by the Senior Class, Volume One of the Cincinnatian featured an elaborate faculty section, complete with biographies; University Athletic records (half mile run by Dan Laurence, 2 minutes, 33 seconds); organization reviews: The Glee and Mandolin Club, Las Trovadoras, The McMicken Review, the '96 Canoe Club; and the fraternity section for the campus—three fraternities and two sororities.

THE SENIORS in ninety-four

Proud indeed was the class of '94 of its enrollment—thirty-three graduates, the largest class ever graduated from McMicken. Victors in nearly every athletic event through their four years, these seniors were still chuckling two years later over their capture as sophomores of the flag in the annual flag-rush; the other class had hung it on some telegraph wires. This too was the year the University baseball team first played the Cincinnati Redlegs! The climax of the year came with the saving of the Columbian Exposition from financial ruin by the guest appearance and subsequent success of the University Glee and Mandolin Club—at least so maintained our worthy progenitors, and who are we to doubt?

and in forty-three

Graduates of a war year necessarily postpone their own careers to enter into armed service or industrial service; both men and women will enter these two fields in nineteen hundred and forty-three. They go into the future with faith, training, enthusiasm, and memories of happier times during carefree college days. Their only worry, in true Senior fashion, is that U. C. may not be able to carry on without them.

SENIOR PROM

Because of early graduations and imminent calls to the colors, this year's Senior Prom was held nearly two months earlier than usual. Like the very successful Prom last year, this year's affair was informal and was held in the Student Union Building. It centered in the Great Hall but managed to overflow into every part of the building.

At last year's Prom the slightly hot but definitely happy mobs did their shoving to the music of Stan Kenton's Band, direct from important engagements in the East. The warm weather made the fountain in the Grill and the terrace facing the stadium very popular spots.

This year's seniors, many of them enjoying their last big U. C. dance, will have the sparkling music of Bill Cross' band to remember as they look back to their last and most eventful year of college life. Heading this year's committee in charge of arrangements was Don Schroeter, chairman of the Social Board.

THE JUNIORS in ninety-four

The prospect of finishing their college days on a new Burnet Woods campus dominated the thoughts of the Juniors in 1894. Both the Board of Legislation and the Dean had promised a McMicken graduation, so hopes were high. Though its members dwindled in succeeding years, the class of '95 held the distinction of being the first freshman class to count its numbers with three digits. This sense of "ushering in a Renaissance" seemed to more than compensate for defeats in the flag-rush in the minds of the Juniors in appraising their chances for immortality. Leadership in baseball and good men on the football team gave a genuine ring to the class yell, "Rah, Rah, Ree, Rip, Rah, Ree, '95, '95, U. of C.!"

and in forty-three

The Junior class of 1894 indulged in "rushing for the flag," but such a pastime is no game to the class of 1944. Most of the men do not expect to obtain a degree before they are called into service. This class's Junior Prom will be the last one for a long time. These upperclassmen will miss McMicken Commons and section change more than any other group on campus.

At skirmishes! . . . Congratulations, Mary Annel

JUNIOR PROM

This last "glamour" event of the season and, of necessity, the last Junior Prom for the duration was a really gala event. The Florentine Room of the Hotel Gibson was more than filled; thanks to the enthusiasm with which Omicron Delta Kappa, national upperclassmen's activity honorary, sponsored the affair. Mitchell Ayers and his "Fashions in Music" reigned supreme until glamorous Dorothy Ayer of Delta Delta Delta was elected Prom Queen; it was her dance and her evening from there on in. At twelve-thirty Miss Ayer was presented by Dean Postle and received the large streamlined trophy donated by O.D.K. and a lovely bouquet of spring flowers. Despite cheers, applause, and her own excitement she was able to "say a few words" over the air. O.D.K. pledges were summoned at the intermission just after the Prom Queen candidates had been introduced. Allan Whaling was the general chairman of the dance for this year.

THE SOPHOMORES in ninety-four

"Hi Rickety! Whoopyt Dix!
What's the matter with '96!
Hullabalix! Terraganix!
Ausgenzeichnet '96!

This was the battle-cry of the Sophomores in ninety-four. With only two years behind them, this stalwart crew could boast of a sterling victory over the up-percossmen hordes in a twenty-four hour flag-rush. Victories in everything from the hundred yard dash to the three-legged race earned these enterprising Sophomores their athletic prowess. One of their members "made a record for himself down at Lexington by sliding forty-five feet on the anterior portion of his corporosity, but he unfortunately stopped something like thirty-nine feet and eleven inches short of the base. Otherwise his slide was a perfect success."

and in forty-three

The Sophomores will probably feel the revolutionary changes on a war-time campus more than any other class. They have had two years of carefree college days and now will experience two years of a more organized routine which minimizes strictly university activities and abolishes inter-collegiate athletic competition. Civilian men will be at a premium on campus, but they say "there's something about a soldier."

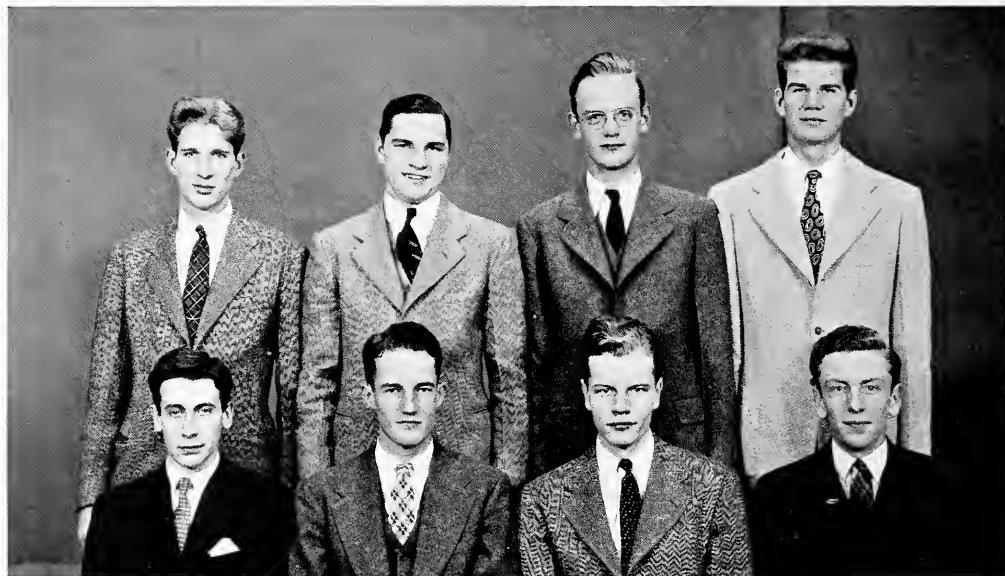

We'll get her at the trial . . . "Sophos summons —" . . .

SOPHOS

Sophos, activity honorary inaugurated in 1931, selects its members from freshmen and sophomore men on the basis of campus activity and school interest. Membership continues throughout the first three years of school. This organization lays the foundations of inter-fraternity spirit among its pledges. The group may pledge a maximum of sixteen freshmen and eight sophomores. Pledging takes place at one of the school's big dances. Sophos, itself, sponsors a traditional event, the Sophos Swing, at which the Freshmen Queen is chosen. At football games, the Sophos cheering section is evident. The organization has also established a scholarship fund. Election of officers is held at Christmas time. The officers are: President, Pierson Davis; Vice-President, Vic Abnee; Secretary, Bates Lowry; Treasurer, Charles Perrin; Faculty Advisor, Dean Joseph E. Holliday.

SOPHO'S SWING

This year's Sophos Swing was held in the Great Hall of the Student Union by a record-breaking crowd of a thousand couples and two football squads. The distinctive music of Johnny "Scat" Davis and his orchestra kept the majority of the crowd on the dance floor every minute. Despite the heat, people seldom "sat out" a number. Lovely Mary Kispert of Theta Phi Alpha was selected Freshman Queen. She was presented at midnight by Dean Holliday, advisor of Sophos activity honorary for freshman and sophomore men which sponsors this dance annually. Amid the shouts of admirers, the Queen received official congratulations and a bronze trophy. Previously all fifteen candidates for election had been introduced by Allan Whaling, outgoing president of Sophos. Members of this organization paraded during the intermission. The dance, probably the last of this series for the duration, was a huge success judging by the attendance and the general enthusiasm.

THE FRESHMEN in ninety-four

Like that of any freshman class, our record of the class of ninety-seven contains few facts and many predictions. Adopting white and gold as its class colors and "Boom, what! Ru Ree! Ninety-seven, U. of C." as its class yell, these fledglings entered college with high hopes. Numbering 115, this class had little trouble in seeing that their "mud-spangled banner still waved" in spite of the "Juniors, Seniors, mules, and dump-carts" arrayed against them. A glance at the school calendar for 1894 tells us something of the elaborate rushing by the fraternities, that the "Sigma Chis' goat kicked out a six dollar pane of glass," and how well the Freshmen stood up under their pre-initiation ordeals.

and in forty-three

The present Freshmen experienced a taste of collegiate glamour pre-war vintage; but it was just a taste. The women will finish their college years on a campus where zoot suits are an anachronism and the well-dressed male wears a uniform. Men may find themselves training on other campuses after induction into the armed forces. It will be this class's problem to see that U. C. tradition is not buried forever, even though it be forgotten for a time.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

Alpha Lambda Delta national scholastic honorary for freshman women encourages leadership as well as study. It was founded at the University of Illinois in 1924, and the local chapter was installed in 1931. Women must have a 4.5 average in their freshman year to be pledged. A book is given each year to the senior with the highest average. Last year's recipient was Martha Ann Fischer. This group has established a scholarship fund which they renew each year by sales and projects. The fund is handled by Dean Ingle and the scholarship committee. There are bi-annual pledging and initiations in the spring and fall. One of Alpha Lambda Delta's traditional events is a joint party with Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary. The officers are: President, Peggy Maisch; Vice-President, Ruth Pierle; Secretary, Evelyn Shute; Treasurer, Carolyn Forbriger; Faculty Advisor, Professor Jean Winston.

PHI ETA SIGMA

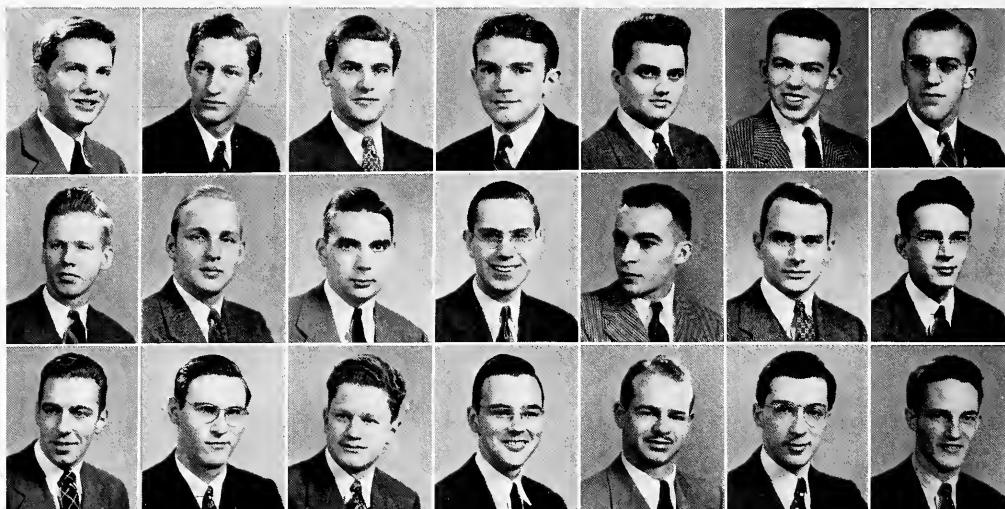

Phi Eta Sigma is an honorary scholastic fraternity for men. It was founded at the University of Illinois in 1923, the chapter at the University of Cincinnati being installed in 1933. The purpose of Phi Eta Sigma is to encourage and reward high scholastic attainment among the men of the freshman classes in all colleges. Freshman men who make a designated scholastic average are automatically invited to join. Active membership continues through the Junior year. Meetings of the local chapter are held once a month. At these meetings speakers of interest are invited to put timely topics before the group. The speakers are faculty members, student speakers, or outside guests. Because of its important place on campus, Phi Eta Sigma has a representative on Men's Senate. Officers are: President, Ray Wuerth; Vice-President, Dick Hanford; Secretary, Fred Blanchard; Treasurer, Andrew Owen.

Active Mortar Boards at U. C. can be recognized by their smart beige jackets with official insignia, and pledges by the large red poppies which they sport. Members are "tapped" in the spring of their junior year, and are selected on the basis of service, scholarship, and personality. The society promotes college loyalty, leadership, and scholarship. It also advances the spirit of service and fellowship among university women. The officers are: President, Mary Anne Nenninger; Vice-President, Lita Weber; Treasurer, Rita Obermeyer; Secretary, Virginia Luning; Faculty Advisors: Professor Grace B. Davies; Miss Lois Eliot; Professor William S. Clark.

To foster college spirit and to enhance the glory of the University of Cincinnati are the purposes of Sigma Sigma, founded in 1898, society of upperclassmen of the University of Cincinnati. The members are chosen on their merits alone, without regard for fraternity affiliation. Sigma Sigma is strictly a local fraternity and will remain so; as its most important function, that of teaching loyalty to the University of Cincinnati by giving unselfish service to the Alma Mater, can best be performed as a local organization. The officers are: President, James Fuller; Secretary, Richard Anderson; Treasurer, Joe Morris.

UNION BOARD

Ping-pong in the game room, a coke in the grill, a nap in the lounge, dinner in the cafeteria—this is what the Union means to the U. C. student. But he is seldom aware of the existence of the Union Board which regulates these activities. This representative group, composed of students and faculty, sets aside the rooms for his meetings and recreation. Board members recently appointed Professor Wayland M. Burgess as supervisor to replace Professor Ralph Burseik, now a Captain in the Army.

The officers are Dorothy Eichelberger, President; Tom Smith, Vice-President; and Mary Linn DeBeck, Secretary. Dean Postle, Dean Ingle, Dean Gowdy, and Mr. Laurence are members in the faculty.

"This may be Social Board, but this isn't a social meeting," quotes Chairman Don Schroeter as he calls the group to order. Secretary Lucy Voss reluctantly crushes out a cigarette as she prepares to take notes.

Deans Ingle and Postle are the only members who do not have to feign an efficient air. Amazingly enough the Board gets things done. They arrange and accept petitions for all recognized social functions on campus. This planning prevents conflicts. On the social calendar in the Union all dates are registered for public notice.

ORIENTATION BOARD

Four complete orientation programs instead of the regular two—that is the task the University Orientation Board faced this year. The members of this organization, who are in charge of acquainting the new student with the workings of the campus, arranged programs for the June and February classes as well as the usual two in September. The orientation program included such highlights as tours of the campus, moving pictures on college activities, and opening banquets in the Great Hall. The Board helped administer psychology and reading tests to incoming students and also planned the Orientation Hand Book. Freshman interviews handled by the Deans are an integral part of this freshman program. The Board officers are: Chairman, Tom Kreider; and Secretary-Treasurer, Carole Ginn; Faculty Advisors, Dean Postle and Dean Ingle.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

This year's membership drive went "over the top": largest in the history of the Y. M. C. A. The campus still talks with enthusiasm about the outstanding lecture series by Dean Gilkey of the University of Chicago. A small chapel was opened in the basement of McMicken Hall at the beginning of the second semester. The traditional Thanksgiving Eve Dance was quite a success. The "Y" again sponsored a lecture series on "Marriage and the Home." It is now planning a program to help meet the needs of the army men who will be training on this campus. The officers are: President, Douglas Hoge; First Vice-President, Lloyd Towers; Second Vice-President, Charles Griffes; LeGrand Terry; Secretary, Charles Riggs; Treasurer, Thomas Kreider; Executive Secretary, Dr. Robert W. Bishop; Chairman of the Board of Management, Dean Louis A. Pechstein.

Interesting friends and friendly interests can be cultivated at the Y. W. C. A. Fifteen committees meeting weekly discuss everything from Hillcrest to Hitler. The four hundred and seventy-five "Y" girls go in for fun and frivolity at the monthly all membership dinners, dances, and parties.

DEBATE COUNCIL

"Ladies and Gentlemen—we of the affirmative are firmly convinced that . . ." and thus for many long hours did the members of the Debate squad and council contend. Kappa Alpha Theta and the Independent team—both came through to win the awards in the annual Intramural Debate Tourney. Janie Pace, Joyce Nolan, Bill Klohm, and Al Walker, in spite of war difficulties managed to journey to Iowa; they even carried their own bags. On the home front Howard Frazier, Max Mendel, Nelson Stone, Morton Rosenbaum, Al Cripe, Dan Jacobs, Morkie Wilker-son, and Rosemary Hofmann encountered stiff resis-tance from Wittenburg, Western Reserve, and Xavier. The council is composed of President, Bill Klahm; Vice-President, Al Walker; Secretary, Joyce Nolan; and Treasurer, Rosemary Hofmann. Martha Rule is the Intramural Manager and Myron Spenser is the Coach.

Dean Arthur S. Postle,

The vital subject: University at War, concerns the entire student body . . .

In the words of President Raymond Walters, "The University of Cincinnati has enlisted for the duration." In this manner he has summed up the ways in which the University, its staff, its students, and its facilities are contributing to the war effort.

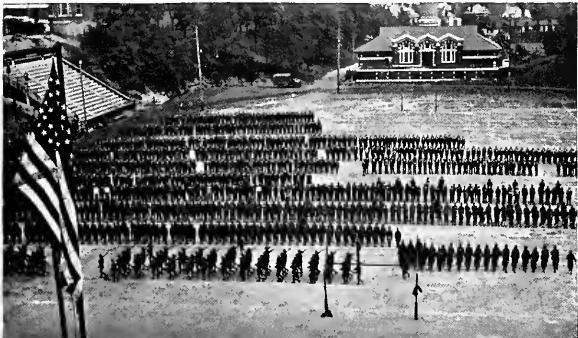

Shortly before the opening of the current academic year, President Walters was appointed to a committee of twelve college and university presidents formed by the American Council on Education at the request of the War and Navy Departments and Manpower Commission.

All phases of University life are being remolded to fulfill their respective roles in the war effort. Since the beginning of the war, special courses have been planned in all colleges. Some are adaptations of regular courses with emphasis placed on parts of the courses bearing special wartime significance. Some are entirely new courses and are offered in cooperation with the armed forces.

During the first World War the University was the site of a unit of the Student Army Training Corps. For six months the program attempted to coordinate academic and military training, the trainees living in barracks on campus during this period.

At the end of the last war the Reserve Officers Training Corps was established on the campuses of this and other leading universities and colleges. The coming of the present war, therefore, found many University of Cincinnati men already trained and ready to make real contributions to the fighting forces. To parallel the disciplinary training offered the men in the R. O. T. C., the women on campus have organized the CADETS.

TOP TO BOTTOM: The Scrap pile, Civilian Defense Exhibit at Co-op Day, USO Dance for servicemen, Nurses' Aide Corps Enlistment.

The University is now passing into an even more complete phase of war service by putting at the disposal of the armed forces its facilities for training and housing of enlisted personnel of the Army.

Less publicized, but vitally important contributions are to be found in the various research projects being carried on by the University for and in conjunction with the armed forces. Representative of these projects are the work in leather research and the study of the effects of high altitudes on human beings.

Eagerness of the student body to do everything possible to help the war effort is reflected in many noteworthy Civilian Defense projects on campus. Perhaps most noteworthy of these was the drive for scrap rubber and metal carried on last fall on an all-University scale.

Framework for air-raid defense was set up early in the year and included designated shelter areas, assignment of wardens, and patrolling of the campus by the R. O. T. C. unit. Test black-outs are included in the program for perfecting these facilities.

Donations to the Red Cross Blood Bank, purchase of War Bonds and Stamps, and the allotment of time to various Civilian Defense projects have all become services in the lives of most University students.

USO dances for service men were events of the summer months, and excursions to Army and Navy training centers by the Glee Club have further shown the desire of student activities to lend themselves to war time demands.

MILITARY

"A Tower of Strength"

Colonel Sydney H. Guthrie

It is a striking coincidence that I, who organized the R. O. T. C. at the University of Cincinnati in 1919, should be again on the job as the Advanced Course of the R. O. T. T. is temporarily suspended for the duration of the war.

During all of these 24 years, Cincinnati has given its share of worthy and efficient officers to the Army, some of them to a life time service to their country as professional soldiers. Several have distinguished themselves in battle and have received promotions and have been decorated for service over and above the call of duty. Cincinnati has reason to be proud of her sons of the R. O. T. C.

All of our present Advanced Course students—279 in number—will be in the service of their country before the middle of the year and will be commissioned officers probably before the end of the year.

The Basic Course will be continued, modified to conform to the Army Specialist Training Program to be placed in effect for the duration of the war. Through this training, many more sons of U. C. will be commissioned officers as the war continues. By continuing the Basic Course, we will be fully prepared to resume the Advanced Course when the interests of our Country will permit.

The University has reason to take pride in its support of the R. O. T. C. through all these years and of the contribution it has made through the R. O. T. C. to the winning of this war.

Let us resolve that when victory comes and we are all allowed to resume the ways of peace, we do not forget the service rendered and that we will make our future contribution to our Country ever more effective and efficient through a better, an improved R. O. T. C.

Sidney H. Guthrie,
Colonel, U. S. Army, Rtd.,
P. M. S. & T.

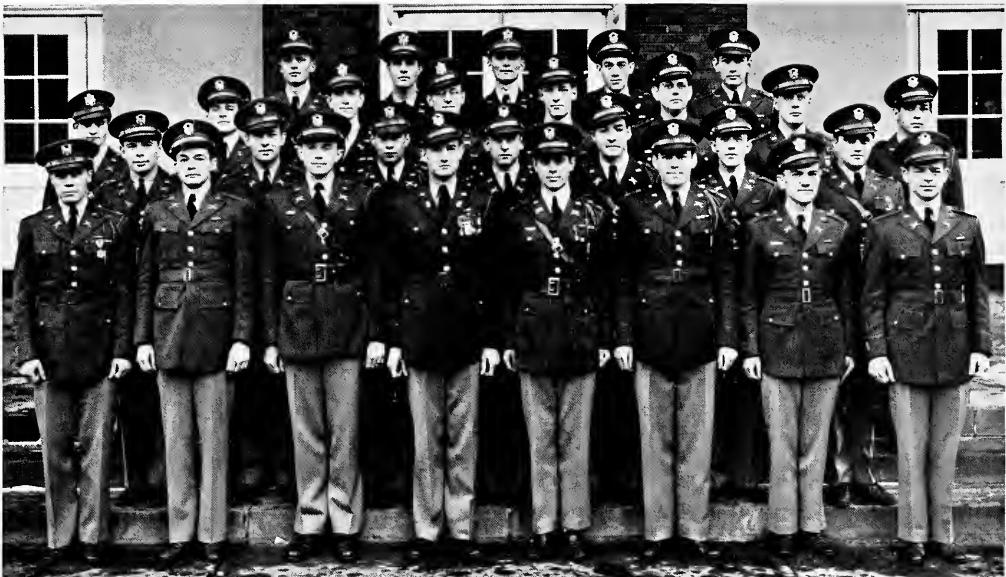

The University R. O. T. C. program is undergoing vast changes. Unforeseen modifications are in store as the full co-operation of the University with the Army crystalizes. The basic course will be affected greatly, and advanced students in coast artillery and ordnance will take accelerated courses in order to be eligible soon for officers' training. The graduates of this year will soon join last year's men on the far-flung battle fronts.

This year's Cincinnati News Record has taken part in the war effort by reporting the University's war program activities as well as by economizing in printing the paper in tabloid form. Adequate space is still reserved for descriptions of school events. Rather thorough information of "what's what" and "Who's Who" on the campus is presented by the News Record's journalistic-minded staff.

TECHNICAL MAGAZINE:

CO-OP ENGINEER

Miller, E., Fusaro, A., Jones, R.

The Co-op Engineering office manages to combine business with pleasure in a satisfactory if slightly noisy manner. The metallic clicking of typewriters does not disturb weary engineers sleeping by the window. The frantic shouts of editors never disrupt Co-op Day Committee meetings. Amazingly enough, issues come out on time.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"No sweeter word e'er charmed my ear . . ."

GLEE CLUB

The 1943 Cincinnati Glee Club expanded its activities to meet wartime requests for musical entertainment. Chosen by U.S.O. to sing at ten of the larger army camps, the club carried a full schedule of school, camp, church, and private concerts. U.S.O. sponsored concerts in Forts Sheridan, Harrison, Knox, Hayes, Great Lakes Training Station, and Patterson Field permitted members to visit and sing in Louisville, Columbus, Indianapolis, and Chicago. "America's Outstanding College Chorus" sang in over thirty concerts, including four commencement programs and the annual Spring Concert, and combined with the Oratoria Society to give an effective performance of Handel's "Messiah."

That snappy University Band "swings" down the field at one hundred and sixty steps per minute (forty better than the Army). Drum major, Al Whaling, Band Sponsor, Mary Lou Clarke, and four Majorettes stepped out in their traditionally smart fashion. Highlight of the season was the musical and botanical tribute of "One Dozen Roses" to Mary Lou. The X.U.C. game saw the premiere of director Merrill Van Pelt's "War Hymn of Cincinnati." "The Red and Black did triumph," and the band was right there "marching down the field."

Rehearsals are riots, but opening nights are deadly serious. Dr. Clark, faculty advisor, discusses business matters, "dances at Mummers revels, and mourns at their Board meetings." Mr. Rose, director, is tireless and the more beloved because he laughs at those slight quips about his hair. Justin Friedman and Joyce Nolan enjoyed emoting to their heart's content in that old melodrama "Lucy's Lament, or the "poor of New York." Sylvia Le Monek handles the publicity as well as the "femme fatale" angle. Those inimitable humorous portrayals by Gracie Kleine are greatly missed. Muriel Baker, Business Manager, and Secretary Martha Rule are overheard discussing their respective duties. President Justin Friedman beamed benignly at the excellent turn-out for the annual spaghetti supper. A second production is now under consideration.

VARSITY VANITIES

In planning the book this year there have been times when we frankly thought the Fifteenth Cincinnati would be literally pox-marked with blank spaces—editorial bomb craters, so to speak, with all the planned copy and pictures blasted away because of students leaving school, organizations dissolving, and contracts being cancelled. In fact, Bud Griffes, the Business Manager, and I were trying to think of clever ways in which we could fill up suddenly vacated pages and half pages. Bud Griffes is now away in the Air Corps doing himself proud by creating a few bomb craters of his own, so I'm doubly glad that this is the only crater to fill. I can think of nothing better with which to fill this space than with heartfelt thanks to all the staff members, busy students, and harried faculty members who have gone out of their way to help us present to you a fairly normal yearbook in this very abnormal year of 1943.

KAPPA KAPPA PSI

Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary society for college band members, was founded at Oklahoma A. & M. College in November, 1919. Its forty-one chapters encourage friendship, leadership, and musical ability among members. The local chapter, Upsilon, was established in 1928. The president is Hal Vayhinger.

One of the most unusual and outstanding campus groups is the University Arts Board which offers opportunities and experience to students with creative interests in its Workshops. The Radio Workshop directed by Rome Hartman provides its members with experience on local stations. Plays are produced by the Dramatic Workshop under Justin Friedman, Sylvia Le Monek, and Betty Lou Bone. The weekly concerts in the Arts Board room are sponsored to provide enjoyment and increase music appreciation. Eileen Herweh is chairman of this division. Another unique group is the Marionette Workshop directed by Sally Taylor for students making puppets and producing shows, and the Poster Shop which takes care of most of the campus signboard publicity. Bob Tucker's Art Appreciation committee has as its outstanding project this year a successful exhibit of "Isms in Art." The Arts Board officers are President, Melvin White; Treasurer, Bert Berman; and Secretary, Sylvia Le Monek.

INTERFRATERNITY PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL

Oh happy day for pledges! The Interfraternity Council and its advisor, Dean Arthur Postle, decided that initiation of pledges would be based on seven weeks' grades as a war measure. The Council, governing body of the seventeen Greek fraternities on campus, was organized in 1931 by Vice-President Daniel Laurence to form a closer bond between the fraternities and the University. The group supervised the publishing of the Freshman Fraternity Handbook which is an aid to freshmen in their choice of affiliation. The annual Interfraternity Dance was an event of early February. The officers are: President, Dick Hoffmann; Secretary, Melvin Neuerman; Secretary of Student Affairs, Vic Abnee.

INTERFRATERNITY PLEDGE COUNCIL

The red and black "dinks" of freshman fraternity pledges form a colorful section in the stadium during the football games. This is only a slight outward symbol of the inward unity among these future Greek letter men. This year's activities were greatly curtailed by the uncertainty of the reserve status. The Interfraternity Presidents' Council rush order on initiation automatically disbanded the Pledges' Council. Plans for the dance, an annual tradition, were almost finished when they had to be scrapped. The situation was unfortunate, but unavoidable. The officers were: President, Jim Thomas; Secretary, Ray Spector.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

Less than three years after Appomattox, the mutual friendship of six students of the University of Virginia who had served in the Civil War together had ripened into a steadfast companionship. They founded the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Through the decades of the 1880's and the "gay nineties," the unique institution of the national Greek letter college fraternity came into being. Pi Kappa Alpha was a part of that typical American youth movement.

On May 17, 1910, the first charter to a chapter north of the Mason-Dixon line was received with pride at the University of Cincinnati. Members of the then local Epsilon Gamma Chi who became charter members of the "Pi Kap" group included: Frank S. Gavin, Elmore C. Walters, Frederick D. Lotter, Ellis McNelly, Herman Vogel, Glover Baake, Ward Sterling, Louis F. Werner, Arthur C. Hewitt, Edward G. Riemann, Arthur B. Robertsan, Robert M. Schell, Charles Jahnke, Herbert Shaffer and our own Reginald C. McGrane.

Men of Pi Kappa Alpha have known the sorrows of a nation torn by civil strife: some went down on the battleship Maine; more than 2,000 followed Pershing "over there" in World War I; today the sun never sets on Pi Kaps who are in the service of Uncle Sam.

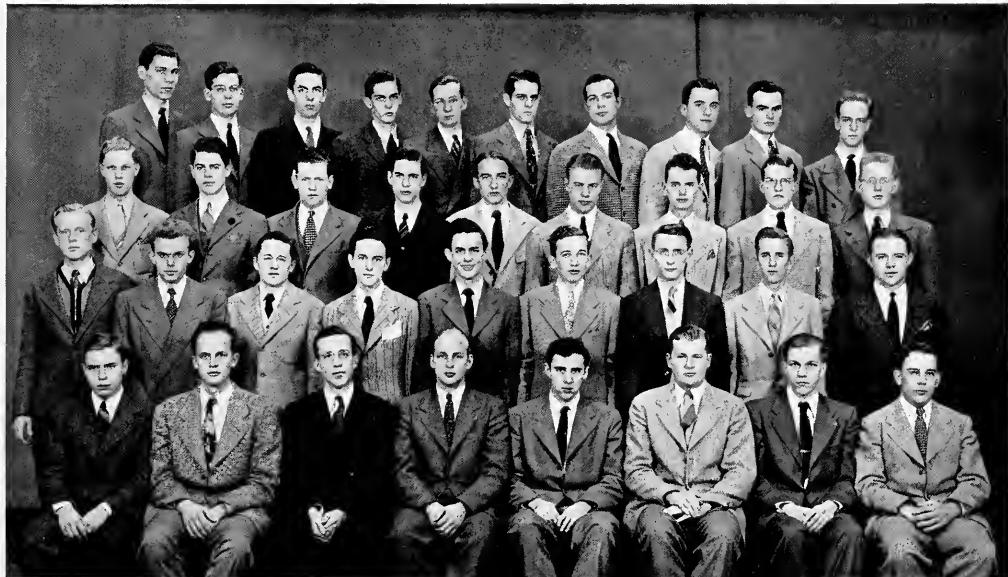

Nor are they alone in this. Equally courageous men of other college fraternities stand ready to sweat and die if need be to hold on to those possessions which mark us as American collegians—the right to meet as often as we like with friends of our choice; to strive for better things in free enterprise; to read the books and listen to the lectures of qualified scholars regardless of their religions or political creed.

In its seventy-fifth year, Pi Kappa Alpha salutes American universities and colleges everywhere and their offspring, the Fraternity System. Together they have produced a young manhood and womanhood with the leadership and the "know how" to win this war.

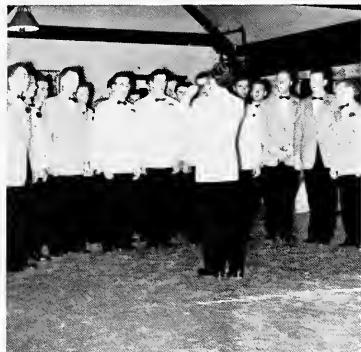

Going on the assumption that this might be their last year around the Alma Mater, the Pi K. A.'s decided to make the most of their time . . . that party out at "Doc" Straehley's hunting lodge . . . Prexy Dick Hoffmann presiding over Interfraternity President's Council . . . Verne Ullom and Fred Daniell making both Ulex and Sigma Sigma . . . the boys making it an All-Pi Kap Homecoming Day by capturing the award for the most humorous float . . . the pledge formal out at Clovernook, preceded by a cocktail party at Harry Whallon's home . . . Doug Hoge capturing the "Y" presidency . . . the boys keeping an eye on grades and thinking of seeing the world at Uncle Sam's expense.

"We must cut down," was the ever-present cry in Pan-Hellenic Council. Concrete measures were taken to carry out this aim by greatly reducing the rushing budget, shortening the rush period, and eliminating serenading and elaborate parties. The annual formal dinner-dance sponsored by "Pan-Hell" was replaced by a simple dinner for all Greek pledges and new initiates. Council lent the combined glamour of all sororities to aid at U.S.O. service centers and continued to foster fraternity morale by the exchange dinner policy. This year's officers are: President, Virginia Sawyer; Secretary, Esther Lueders; Treasurer, Marion Knagge. Mrs. Little gave her traditionally invaluable aid.

ATHLETICS

"O Varsity, dear Varsity . . ."

M. Charles Mileham

Wartime service demands a condition of strength, endurance, stamina, coordination, and agility beyond that ordinarily required for peacetime. To meet its obligations to men entering the service, the Physical Education program experienced a vast enlargement under Mr. Mileham. Combative activities to develop aggressiveness, initiative, and resourcefulness in personal combat; sports and games to develop cooperation, leadership, and "fellowship" were introduced. Training is given for one hour daily on four days each week; four periods were devoted to body building work and a fifth to lectures on personal health, social hygiene, and nutrition.

ATHLETIC PROGRAM

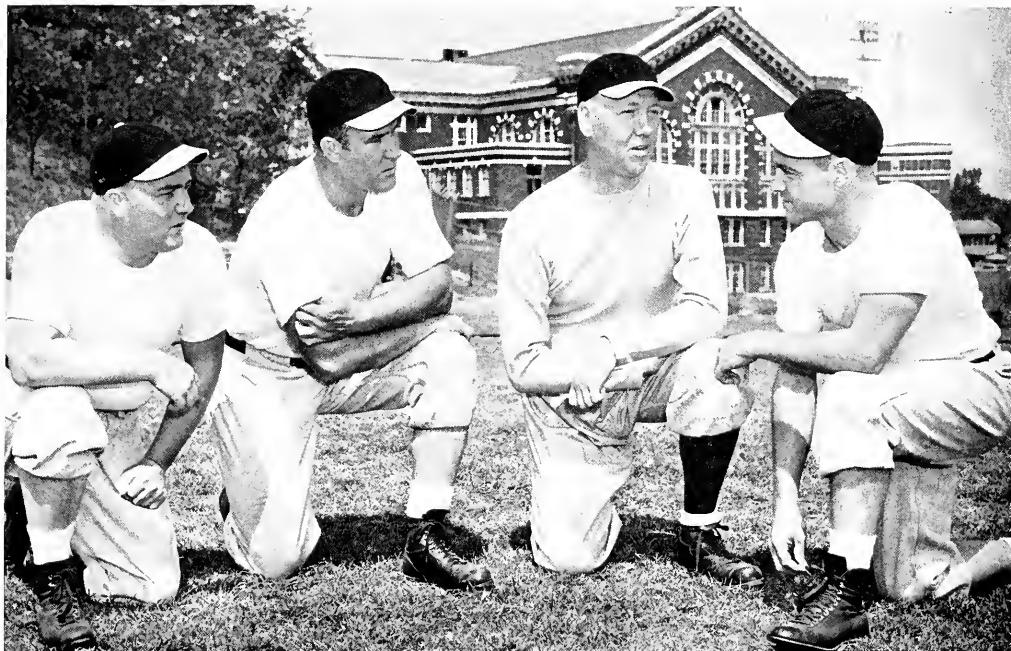

In spite of the wartime difficulties forced on the Athletic Department at U.C., it completed the current year with an excellent record while continuing the policy of offering to the sport fans of the Queen City a glimpse at big-time football.

Coach Meyer and his assistants, expecting the loss of key men to the armed services, prepared for it by securing a large and talented freshman group. This move reaped an unestimatable profit as the ban on freshmen participation was lifted. The 'Cats performances against Georgia and Tennessee, Rose Bowl and Orange Bowl winners were truly steps toward national recognition. The game with Xavier University aroused a keen college spirit, seldom heretofore acknowledged.

Our basketball squad experienced a change in its coach. Director Chick Mileham obtained a seasoned mentor in the person of Mr. Bob Reuss. His success was hampered greatly by his inability to replace last year's lettermen. However, with the aid of good sophomore and freshmen material, the remnants of the '41-'42 squad managed to keep a 50-50 pace.

The program of intramural sports continued to be considered one of the country's most extensive in the number of participants involved and activities presented. In accord with the War Department, efforts were made to emphasize size and include those events which permitted more strenuous exercise.

Ray Bonar

Trained at Notre Dame, Ray Bonar, a quarterback in his playing days, came to U. C. from Belmont Abbey Junior College in North Carolina.

Joe Maxwell

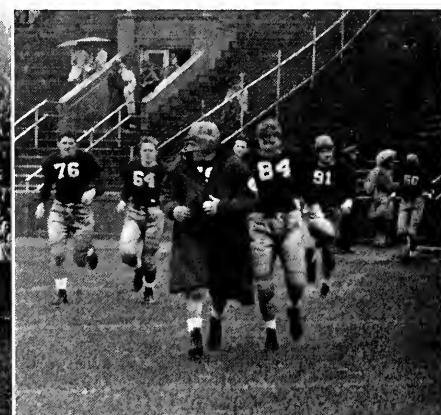

A three-year center on the Notre Dame team, Joe Maxwell coached at St. Louis University before taking up duties at U. C. in 1939.

Joe Meyer

From Notre Dame originally, Joe Meyer coached football, baseball, and basketball at Xavier before coming to the University of Cincinnati in 1937 as head coach.

Linus Haby

Strictly a Cincinnati product, Linus Haby gained his football experience as quarterback on the Bearcat eleven in 1934, 1935, and 1936.

U. C. 51—LOUISVILLE 0

A freshmen and sophomore backfield ran wild behind a line that had an easy time ripping holes in the Cardinal's first line of defense. Chief Meyer's prayers were answered as his ball carriers proved that they had speed, cleverness, and power which enabled them to score eight touchdowns. Murphy rocked up three touchdowns, Williams two, Johnson, Robinson, and Townsend one each.

ABOVE: Reeves.

THE BEARCATS IN FORTY-TWO

Head Coach Meyer was blessed with an ample supply of returning lettermen, but they all were linemen. There wasn't one veteran backfield man available. The local scribes put it quite conclusively, "If Joe Meyer had a backfield, he might have a football team."

Well, Magician Joe did have a backfield—no juniors or seniors developed after several seasons under the Notre Dame system—but a backfield consisting entirely of freshmen and sophomores that proved its effectiveness in the first game by scoring fifty-one points. Sophomores Joe Babcock, Len Klusman, Hal Schneider, Jim Murphy, and Ollie Robinson with freshmen Billy Williams, Hal Johnson, Jim Gibson, Bob Crevey, and Joe Townsend shared the ball-toting honors in a manner beyond expectations.

Nick Skorich, Johnny Bedway, Bob Meier, and Elbie Nickel, four truly great defensive linemen, will be remembered for their spectacular play exhibited the entire season against heavier and more experienced forward walls. Assisting were Bill Smyth, Notre Dame transfer; Willie Stargel, cagey end; Jake Sweeny and Verne Ullom, juniors; and sophomores Dick Langenbeck and Earl Hobt.

The '42 win-loss record of eight and two is Joe Meyer's best; hasn't been equalled by any McMicken eleven since 1897. When Joe picked up the reins at U.C., the team hadn't won a game the previous year against small time schools. This year, the country's No. 1 team, Georgia, and Tennessee, one of the first five, were the only squads who defeated the Meyermen. His success has not been easy or quick but has come only after years of thoughtful planning and patient building with limited facilities.

U. C. 18—WESTERN RESERVE 7

Billy Williams, playing his best game of the year, sparked his teammates to victory over the favored Red Cats. He scored one of the three Bearcat tallies on a fourteen-yard jaunt and was indirectly responsible for the others. The Bearcats' net gain was 124 yards while the Red Cats were thrown for a total scrimmage loss of 64 yards.

U. C. 21—CENTRE 0

Either the boys from Centre were playing over their heads, or our boys had a bad night, or both, for Cincy was hard pressed. Blocking was below par, inexperience in the backfield reared its ugly head. Centre's quick kick play caught the Bearcat's defense flatfooted. The Cots' line was hampered by the absence of ends Bill Smyth and Willard Stargel.

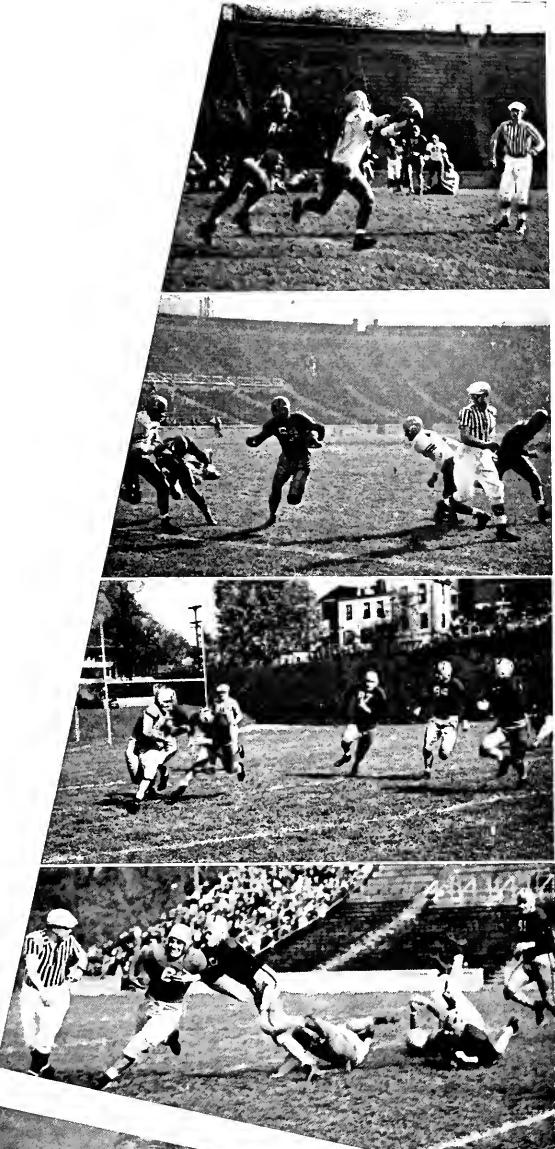

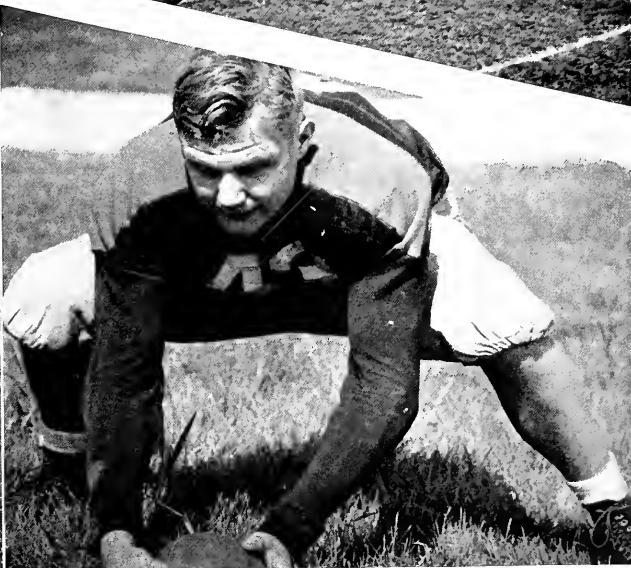

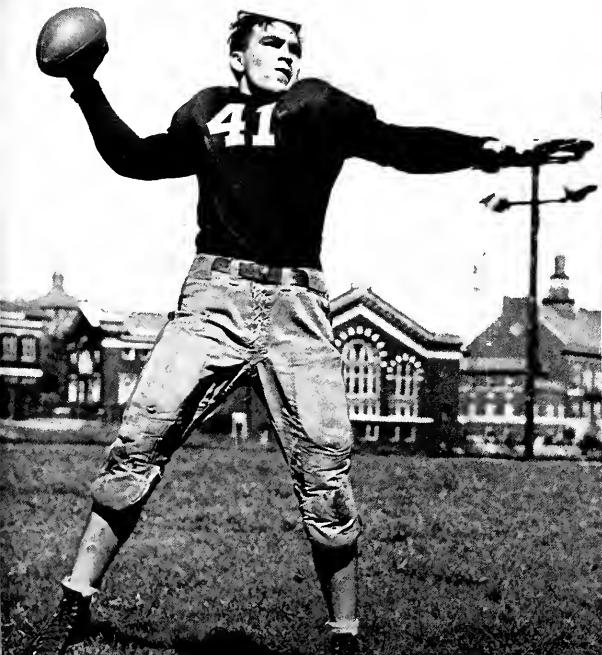

U. C. 26—OHIO U. 7

In a rough and ready affair, marked by numerous penalties, our Bearcats probably played the best game of the season against Ohio U.'s Bobcats. Fekete and Heinz, a pair of fine backs, were stopped cold by the line play of Skorich, Bedway, Meier, and Nickel. Jim Gibson's right arm was in good form, tossing touchdown passes to Stargel and Babcock.

GEORGIA 35—U. C. 13

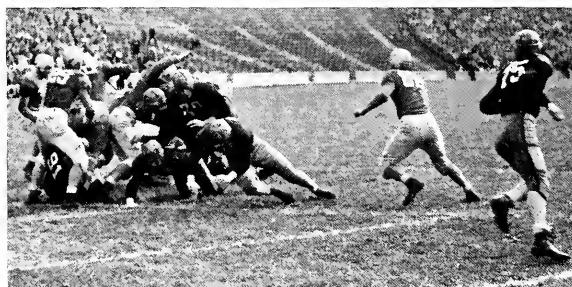

The long awaited game fulfilled expectations. Sinkwich, Trippi, L. Davis, Poschner and Co., All-American offense, produced an unforgettable spectacle. Georgia's 21 points in the first quarter made things look black. The last three quarters in which Georgia scored 14 points, U. C. 13, were made up of 45 minutes of the hardest fought football you would ever want to see.

U. C. 6—BOSTON 0

Handicapped by a sloppy field, Cincy was pressed as they nosed out the Boston Terriers and overcame a four-year jinx. Williams' pass to Ullom marked up the lone tally. Robinson showed great drive. The 'Cats gained 200 yards rushing to 76 for the Bastanians.

TENNESSEE 34—U. C. 12

For three quarters U. C.'s running and aerial attack was stopped dead. But in that final period, the Red and Black marched 72 yards for a touchdown. Bobby Cifers' passes to Hubbel took advantage of a weak passing defense.

U. C. 20—DAYTON 0

The Cincinnati line completely smashed Dayton's ground attack, breaking through to throw the Flyer backs for losses. Much improvement showed in pass defense. Creevy's and Williams' forwards failed to click. Stargel raced 65 yards for a touchdown after catching a blocked pass.

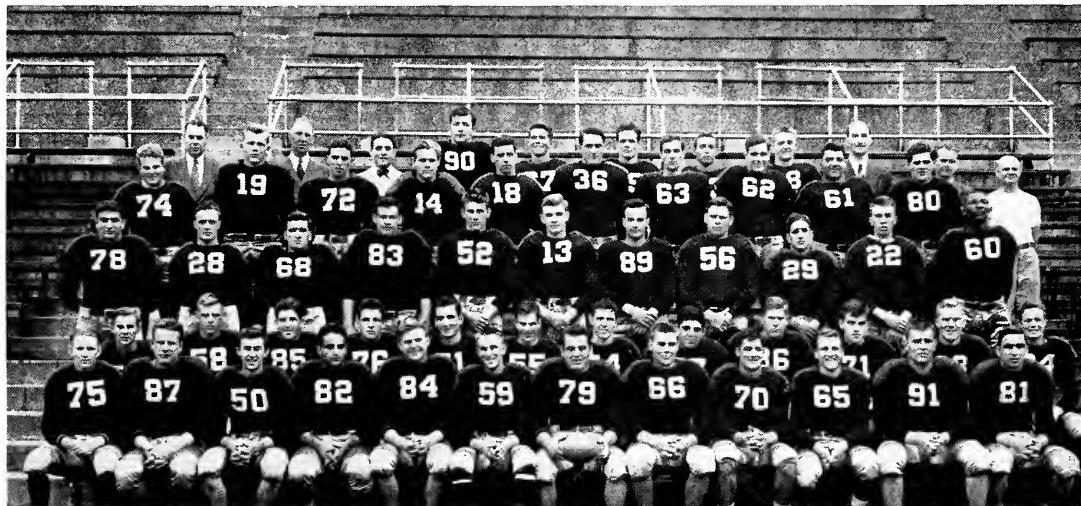

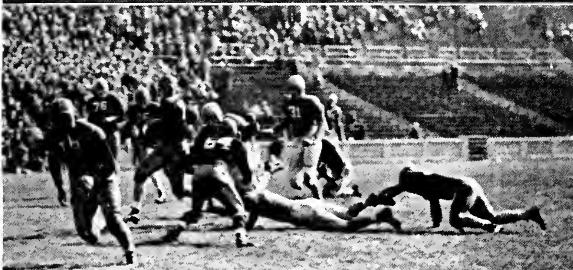

U. C. 9—XAVIER 0

Before the year's largest crowd, in a cold rain, Cincy fans saw a superior U. C. squad beat X.U. in the city's dream game. Mutrym, as well as our backs, was slowed down by the mud. Robinson's and Babcock's punting stood out.

U. C. 21—MIAMI 12

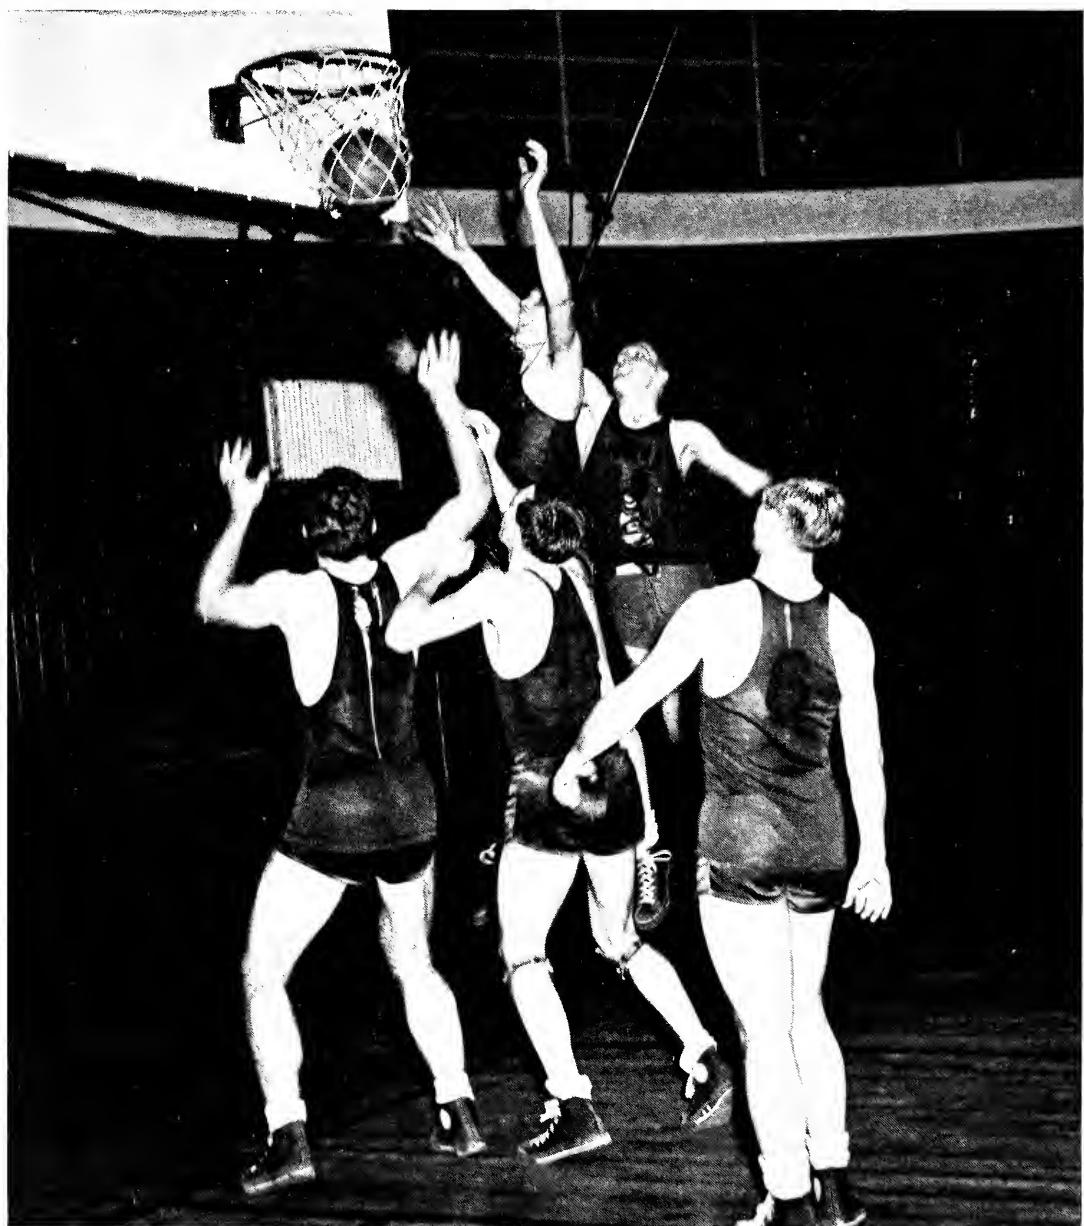

The Redskins' screen play among other old tricksters produced the season's most exciting game. The 'Cats, letting down, had a couple of healthy scares as triple-threat Russell paced his team to two tallies. Johnson scored on a 27-yard run.

COACH BOB REUSS

Our coach for the past three seasons, Clark Ballard, T.C. '36, has left to join the F.B.I. The new mentor is another U.C. grad and a former court star, Robert Reuss, T.C. '32. Reuss was Athletic Director and head football coach at Walnut Hills High School. Previously he turned out several fine court teams at North College Hill High.

ROW I: Merten, A., Taglauer, K., Bottenhorn, F., Merten, R., Covert, C., Spitler, A. ROW II: Reuss, R. Coach, Kolp, S., Trainer, Kobokoff, N., Schneider, H. Richards, A., Ammond, C., Robinson, O., Fohline, R.

BELOW: Bottenhorn, Lees, Taglauer.

Pre-season prospects for a better season were bright since excellent material proved available. The '41-'42 squad suffered only the loss of Captain Ellis King, Bill Mire, and Norm Kravitz by graduation, while an outstanding freshman team presented experienced court stars. Also, for the first time, freshmen would be eligible for varsity competition. However, lack of interest on the part of several who could have made the squad, the draft, and scholastic ineligibility forced Bob Reuss to depend on only two returning lettermen and a number of inexperienced sophomores and freshmen. As a result, the 1942-'43 squad ran hot and cold, winning about half of its games on a nineteen game schedule.

Nate Kabakoff, only letterman in the starting line-up, took up where he finished last season with those fancy left handed shots. Hal Schneider, a product of last year's frosh team, shared scoring honors with fellow-guard Kabakoff. A senior forward, Charlie Lees, played his first year and proved to be a long shot artist. Forward Allen Richards, freshman footballer, developed into one of the team's leading scoring threats as the season progressed. At the center position, Ken Taglauer, another freshman, turned out to be the outstanding all-around player.

The season started with an impressive victory over Wilmington. Avenging last year's defeat, Georgetown was thrashed by an improved five led by Willie Stargel. Inability to sink free throws was partly accountable for the loss to Kentucky. Wittenberg was nosed out by a one point margin. Schneider's seventeen points fell short against Ohio U. An overflowing double-header crowd saw Akron outplay a tired Cincinnati squad. A second half rally defeated Miami. Hanover's excellent record was marred by U. C.'s second drubbing. Miami bowed a second time, but X's improved team kept the season's record below the .500 mark.

MR. LINUS HABY

During his sixth year as Intramural Director, Linus Haby was assisted by Student Managers Charles Kiesewetter, Bill Ezell, and Bud Varwerck.

I N T R A M U R A L S

By providing a sequence of athletic events, the Intramural Division of the Athletic Department maintains the finest form of diversion and wholesome recreation throughout the school year. The program of eighteen activities is designed for three separate seasons, fall, winter, and spring. During the fall, Touch Football, Volleyball, Badminton, and Swimming are contested. In the winter season, we find Handball, Basketball, Bowling, Table Tennis, Free Throw, Boxing, and Indoor Track. Finally, the spring sports include Water Basketball, Horseshoes, Golf, Rifle, Billiards, Tennis, and Softball.

There are two main groupings comprising the team competition, the Fraternity Group and the Independent Group. These groups are divided into leagues. The various teams compete first for their respective league championships, after which each league champ engages in an elimination tournament for the University championship.

With the advance of competition and participation each year, the Athletic Department keeps pace by increasing the number and quality of awards offered. The organization winning a trophy gains possession of it for the ensuing year. When the award is won three times, the trophy becomes the organization's permanent possession, and a new prize is put into circulation.

The standings shown here existed at the beginning of March and included only six of the eighteen sports in the Intramural program.

Although two-thirds of the program remained to be contested, these standings do show that five organizations—Beta Theta Pi, Grill A. C., A. I. Ch. E., Phi Delta Theta, and Delta Tau Delta—have dominated the activity and that the 1942-'43 All-Year Cup winner is bound to be in this group.

Beta Theta Pi with continued persistence has almost doubled the scores of its competitors by capturing the University championship in Volleyball, Badminton, and Basketball. Beta was also runner-up in Touch Football and Swimming.

The Grill Athletic Club accumulated the majority of its points when taking the swim crown and placing second in Basketball.

The Touch Football Championship and participation in the finals of both Volleyball and Basketball resulted in the American Institute of Chemical Engineers' third place.

Finally, Phi Delta Theta gained their points in reward for the Indoor Track Championship and for being runner-up in the Volleyball tournament.

ROW I: Lauder, H., Schmadel, D., Buckmeyer, J., Schoettmer, H., Schroer, R.

B A S E B A L L

Coach Joe Meyer's hopes for a winning diamond nine rests on a fairly abundant wealth of returning lettermen. Bill Herbes and Bud Vorwerck will be available for mound assignments. Ollie Robinson, of football fame, should have opportunity to perform behind the bat now that Hank Schoettmer has left. Dick Schmadel will again be holding forth at the hot corner as will Jack Buckwald at shortstop and Jack Hunt at second. These three were freshmen first stringers last year and should have a great future on the Clifton diamond as long as they remain in school. The loss of senior Wally Portune puts first base open to all comers. Hal Louder, one of the leading batmen, should maintain his .300 or better average while romping around in the outer garden. Hal Schneider and Verne Ullom also will be leading contenders for outfield posts.

Because of the restrictions imposed on the Athletic Department by O. D. T. and the uncertainty of the students' status, the Baseball schedule had to remain non-existent until the last moment when it was subjected to immediate and radical changes.

ROW I: Corbitt, T., Holtson, J., Poggendick, H., Wollenhaupt, J., Hermanies, J., Klusman, L. ROW II: Lasher, W., Fritz, R., Roberts, H., Plunkett, M., Janold, H. (Captain), Klinger, J., Kolp, "Scotty" (Trooper). ROW III: Mitchell, F., Stargel, W., Hammersley, R., Alexander, B., Heinold, J., Erwin, J., Perin, C., Nikoloff, O. (Coach).

Seven lettermen from last year's victorious team provide the foundation for Coach O. M. Nikoloff's 1943 squad. Harry Poggendick specializes in the high jump and discuss throw; Rex Hammersley, shot-put and discuss; Fred Mitchess, quarter-mile and low hurdles; Jim Heinold, quarter-mile race; Ray Fritz, half-mile and mile; and John Hermanies in the mile and two-mile. Len Klusman is a dash man.

In addition, Paul Ribillad and Al Ratcliffe, experienced cross-country men, may run the mile and half-mile events respectively.

Possible meets may be arranged with Berea College, Miami, and Ohio U.

This season marks Coach Nikoloff's third since he took up the reins after an eight-year absence from track coaching. In spite of the numerous difficulties he has confronted, the final results at the close of each season have bettered the proceeding year's marks.

SWIMMING

Commencing the season with the loss of only one letterman, Coach Fred (Tiny) Pfeiffer faced probably the most ambitious tank schedule ever inaugurated at the McMicken pool.

With the possible exception of diving, each department seemed quite strong, but Cincy's mer-men lacked the extra punch to out-point any of the schools contended with this season. Fenn College of Cleveland, Ohio was the only exception.

Captain Bab Mitchell swam the 50 and 100 yard freestyle; Roy Legaly, 220, 100 yard freestyle; Al Bludau, 50 and 100 yard freestyle; Bill Gruber, backstroke and 150 yard medley; Charles Keating, 200 yard breaststroke and medley; and Floyd Byrd competed in the 220 and 440 freestyle events. Hank Hoppe held forth with the 440 freestyle, Bob Huber with the medley and freestyle relays, while Charlie Munz swam the 220 freestyle and freestyle relay.

The 1943 fencing team features Captain Jack Connally; manager and junior epee fencer, Bill Marcy; leading foil fencer, Bob Chase; 1940 novice champ, Dick Daucher; Joe Campbell; A. R. Crip; assistant manager Charley Maumier; and Bill Kenney. Expectations for the current season were not fulfilled, however, for Coach Hutchings' protégés failed to out-score any school they met.

G O L F

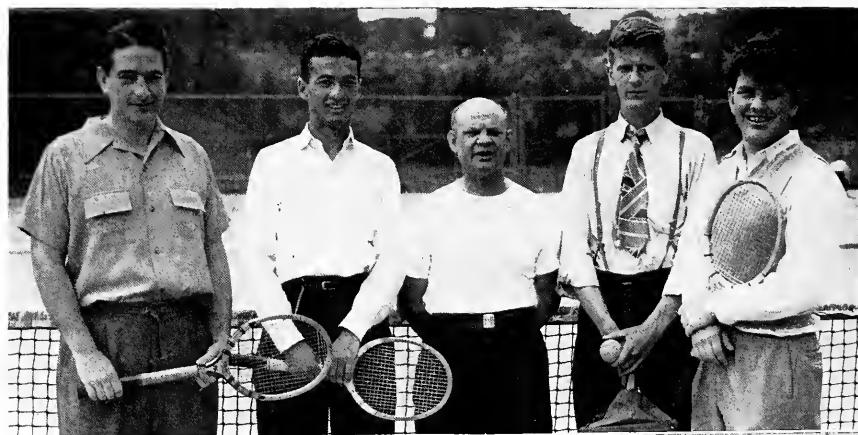

The schedule and team remained indefinite because transportation difficulties, the availability of U.C. golfers, and the doubtful existence of near-by competition made planning impossible.

Coach H. B. Whaling stated that matches were tentatively scheduled with Kentucky, Miami, Ohio U., and St. X.

Warren Foster, Charles Knab, Ed Roach, Ben Mallin, and Allen Whaling, lettermen, constitute the nucleus of a promising squad, providing the Army withholds its call until late April.

TENNIS

Handicapped by the loss of all of last year's regulars, Coach Brigham is nevertheless optimistic about success in '43. The Varsity naturally remained undetermined until the season opened. Sophomore Al Bunis is the most promising prospect since Bill Talbert's time. Tom Conely and Bert Burman should aid considerably. Matches are scheduled with Kentucky, Ohio State, Berea, and Antioch.

Continuing last year's string of victories, which included the National Hearst Trophy and the National Intercollegiate Trophy, the U. C. riflemen outscored all but one of their opponents this year. A perfect record for the year was spoiled by the loss of the Montana State match by two points out of a total of 1800!

The whistle blows; another goal has been shot. The thrill of an exciting game and good sportsmanship more than compensate for the vigor of the game.

By far the speediest sport offered by the Women's Athletic Association, basketball deserves every bit of its popular appeal.

Heads Up! It takes quick thinking and rapid action to make a hit in this game.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

PHYSICAL FITNESS

Present world conditions have brought to our attention the need for a "sound mind in a sound body." To do its share in meeting this need, the Women's Physical Education Department has developed a new course to aid girls in becoming physically fit. Exercises for muscular coordination and conditioning of the body constitute the major portion of this course.

TOP: Up and over. CENTER: A sure footing and proper balance are needed here. BOTTOM: And now down and under.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Individual and team sports that provide every girl on campus with an opportunity for recreation and fun is the primary purpose of the Women's Athletic Association. The schedule is divided into the Fall, Winter, and Spring seasons. Theoretically, every woman student is a member of W.A.A., but voting power is not granted until fifty points are earned in active participation in one of the sports.

MISS COOPS, Mary Joe Schraeder, MISS SMITH, and MISS DAVIESS.

The governing body is the W.A.A. Board which meets once a week to discuss policies and programs of the organization. It is composed of executive officers and managers of various sports. The officers are: Dorothy Seyler, President; Virginia Bartel, Vice President; Margie Ray, Corresponding Secretary; and Margie Berman, Recording Secretary. Professor Grace B. Daviess is the faculty adviser.

MINOR SPORTS

Archery is a highly competitive individual sport that is fun and easy to learn. The climax of the season is the tournament, and awards are given to the high scorer and highest ranking sorority team.

A sure sign of spring and warmer weather is the appearance of the co-eds on the courts, taking advantage of this popular and stimulating form of exercise.

Volleyball is a good team sport which requires alertness and cooperation. The volleyball program this year was designed more for recreation than for rapid competition. This picture was taken at the "Play Night" sponsored by W.A.A.

En garde! It takes quick stepping here to avoid the foil of your opponent.

Badminton is an individual sport requiring agility and speed. Its major activities are a singles and doubles tournament. A trophy is awarded to the winners of these events.

PENGUIN CLUB

In order to create an interest and develop efficiency in swimming, Penguin Club provides a year-round program which includes water games, tested individual skills, and formation swimming. The club has been requested to perform before many local groups. Here on campus its major activity is the presentation of the Annual Water Pageant, which was based this year upon a military theme. Besides effective water formations, the pageant included dancing, tumbling, and ladder drills.

Penguin Club, which was accorded national recognition in a physical education journal, is guided by: Kay Wehrman, President; Lois Kraemer, Social Chairman; and Professor Grace B. Daviess, faculty adviser.

The CINCINNATIAN wishes to express its thanks to Len Osborne and Al O'Hagan of Pogue Studios for a swell job of covering U. C. pictorially.
 —also thanks to Mr. Paul Briol and Mr. Russell Benson for special feature shots.

BUSY? More Than Ever!

War is on the wires today—and getting the message through is a tremendous responsibility. We're "hitting the line" by being everlastingly on the job to see that lines are available and working where needed most, that connections are made quickly. We're proud to be serving the U. S. A.

THE CINCINNATI AND SUBURBAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

THE FAVORITE TIE OF OUR ARMED FORCES

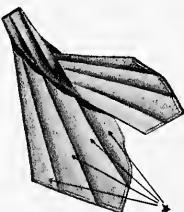

Notice that this tie has NO inner lining. The 4 folds of the fabric serve the same purpose as an ordinary lining—to give shape to the tie. The fact that the tie has no lining guarantees its perfect washability.

ORIGINAL 4FOLD NO LINING

- Fast in color—resist perspiration.
- Always retain their fresh new appearance.
- Tie into a perfect dimpled knot.
- Economical tool Will outwear several ties of ordinary construction and fabric.
- The one and only washable tie with patented 4Fold construction.

4FOLD UNIFORM TIE
CONUS PAT REG 2,542,252
FABRIC BY GOODALL
55% WOOL-45% COTTON SPLENDID
..WASHABLE..

The tie when finished and folded is bartacked at the sides. This unique construction makes it easy to wash—press the tie—and retain its original shape. There is no lining to wrinkle or buckle, such as is found in all ordinary tie construction.

WITHOUT THIS LABEL

Because of the simplicity of this 4FOLD Construction . . . and because there is no inner lining to bunch up or distort, these fine uniform ties drape into a perfect dimpled knot.

THOUGHTS OF SPRING

BRING THOUGHTS OF

ICE CREAM

JADED Appetites . . . "Spring fever-ish palates . . . spring quickly back to energy when you serve Nature's most delicious food-dessert.

PURE FRUITS blended with rich milk and cream and tantalizing ingredients produce the dish which appeals instantly to young and old.

NO DESSERT can take the place of Ice Cream at meals, 'tween meals or after meals.

To get the greatest enjoyment out of Ice Cream, use FRECHTLING'S SEALTEST Ice Cream—made in a model plant, and every ingredient thoroughly controlled by constant laboratory protection.
